Capt. A. M. Davies Saw Serpent Act Like Boa Constrictor on Whale Off Coast

Further evidence was submitted to The Times this morning to prove that some strange and peculiar creature is frequenting the waters adjacent to Victoria. It appears to have all the markings of the famous sea serpent.

Following the news published in The Times yesterday of the encounter which Major W. H. Langley had with the strange denizen on Sunday, which corroborated an earlier experience of W. W. Kemp, several persons have come forward with stories which show that the mysterious creature is not a myth.

SAW STRANGE SIGHT

R. C. Ross, of Nirava, Tod Inlet, sent a letter stating he had witnessed an unusual commotion of Ten-Mile Point Wednesday afternoon. Here is Mr. Ross' story: "I went right over the spot where it had been, but there was no sign of anything."

"I mentioned this strange incident to my friends on arriving here, and we decided it was a mirage caused by the fog. Since then Major Langley's strange experience has been told, so now it is possible that my eyes did not deceive me, and that what I saw was the back of our unknown visitor."

WAS "SCARED STIFF"

"I was scared stiff when I saw this strange sea monster," said W. B. Grant, manager of the drug department of David Spencer Limited this morning.

OTTAWA FEARS BETRAYAL HERE

Bennett Government Watches Election in B.C. With Mixed Feelings

Believed Reason: C.E.F. Will Have Direct Bearing on Federal Election

Special to The Times

Ottawa, Oct. 6.—The Bennett Government here is watching the election campaign in British Columbia with mixed feelings. It deplores the disappearance of the Conservative Party from the political picture on the coast, and some of the ministers are unrestrained in their criticism of the Toimie Government and the party associations in hauling down the historic Conservative colors.

It is on the cards that there will be a federal election some time next year, and it is feared that if the British Columbia election should be held without any representation at all of the Conservative Party among the candidates, though they may be defeated, it will be impossible to revive the party prestige, tradition and organization in time to make it a factor in a federal contest.

In Nova Scotia, although the result of the recent election returned the Liberals to office, the Conservative Party, while defeated, preserves its identity and reputation.

In Conservative circles in Ottawa astonishment has been caused by the spectacle of so many prominent supporters of the party in British Columbia running away from the party designation as if it were a thing of reproach, and calling themselves various other things.

COWARDICE SUGGESTED
British Columbia Conservatism in politics is certainly on the black book of the government at Ottawa, which feels that it has been betrayed in the Pacific province through nothing short of cowardice.

Quebec, Oct. 6.—A bull moose that dived the right-of-way with an automobile on a road near here, ended second best. Apparently frightened or annoyed at the headlights of the car, the animal charged it, the antlers smashed the windshield and Albert Fowle and his mother, the occupants, were slightly injured. Front fenders were torn off as the moose freed itself. Next day Fowle returned to the scene on foot and was charged by the moose. He shot and killed it.

MURDOCK GETS AN INJUNCTION

Action Started Against Expulsion as Rail Brotherhood Executive

Canadian Press
London, Oct. 6.—Senator James Murdock of Ottawa started action in County Court here to-day against his expulsion as vice-president of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen. He secured through his counsel, J. R. McRuer, K.C., Toronto, an interim injunction from Judge Joseph Wearing.

The injunction restrains the London local of the brotherhood from expelling him from its membership at a meeting here next Sunday. The injunction is good until October 21. Senator Murdock has been a member of the London lodge for more than forty years.

In support of his action, the Senator claimed an attempt was being made to expel him from the London local. If expelled, he would be unable to prosecute his appeal against the decision of the executive council of the international organization which ousted him as vice-president. This appeal he plans to bring before the grand lodge at its next meeting.

MANY HEAR OF QUAKE SHOCKS

Residents of City Hear of Somebody Else Who Felt Quake Last Night

Observatory Director Reports Slight Disturbance; Did Not Feel It

Although the photographic seismographical records developed this morning showed a slight tremor at 6.38.33 o'clock, yesterday evening, F. Napier Dennison, director of the Dominion Meteorological Observatory on Gonzales Heights, was called to the observatory at the time failed to notice the tremors. He explained this by saying that the observatory was situated on the rocks of the hill.

Another tremor reported to have taken place at 6.57 o'clock was so small that it would not have been noticed by anyone.

The epicentre of the earthquake was placed by Mr. Dennison as being somewhere off Nanaimo at the bottom of the Gulf of Georgia. The north-south instrument recorded nothing while he, said, while the markings on the east-west machine were very small.

Several people in the eastern and northern part of the city are said to have felt their houses tremble slightly and rushed into the street. In Nanaimo it was thought that an explosion had taken place at the mine. Houses shook, clocks stopped, dishes rattled and furniture fell down and many residents of the town, where the shock was the greatest, rushed into the streets. Cedar, Wellington and Parkville districts reported feeling the shock.

A reporter of The Times this morning questioned a number of people as to whether or not they had felt the quake and they all replied in the negative. Most of them, however, had heard of someone who had experienced the shocks but efforts to run the other people down were of no avail.

A report that a small lean-to in the Cadboro Bay district had collapsed was unsubstantiated this morning.

REPRIEVED AS GALLOWS YAWN

Stay of Execution For Kenneth and William McLean as Hangman Prepares Trap

Canadian Press
Edmonton, Oct. 6.—Eleventh-hour reprieve for Kenneth and William McLean, convicted of the murder of Walter J. Parsille, came last night when, in a special session of the Supreme Court of Alberta, Mr. Justice Tweedie granted stay of execution to October 20. The McLeans, father and son, were to have been hanged at dawn to-day.

A special session of the court made history as it convened in response to urgent pleas of Neil Primrose, counsel for the McLeans. Mr. Primrose informed the court he had not appealed to the Supreme Court of Canada as no funds had been available. At a late hour Thursday a defence fund had been arranged on behalf of the son, William, twenty-one-years-old.

Mr. Primrose asked stay of William's execution until such time as an appeal to the Supreme Court of Canada could be made.

Mr. Justice Tweedie granted stay of execution for William. Then, as the father, Kenneth, would be a material witness in case a new trial was ordered for the son, he put over both executions to October 20.

Special emissaries rushed word of the court decision to Fort Saskatchewan where all was in readiness for the double hanging. The McLeans betrayed no emotion when told their lives had been spared temporarily. Mr. Kenneth McLean remained at the court room until the return of his emissaries brought confirmation the prison warden had received notice of the stay of execution. Word of the reprieve had reached the jail about five hours before the scheduled start of the executions.

Canadian Press

Ottawa, Oct. 6.—The new Dominion conversion loan to be offered the people of Canada next week will be payable in Canadian funds and subscriptions will not be solicited outside of Canada. It was explained by Finance Department officials to-day. It is possible since the interest rate will be somewhat over 4 per cent that considerable money from London will come to Canada to participate in the issue.

Had the new bonds been payable in sterling, as well as Dominion funds, the belief was expressed London would have been anxious to buy. However, the desire is to keep it a domestic issue held largely by the people of this country.

While the amount asked, $225,000,000, looks considerable, if all the holders of the Victory bonds maturing this year convert into the new issue, they will take up $120,000,000. Then an issue of treasury bills held largely by the Canadian Banks, totaling $40,000,000, may also be converted into the new securities. The amount of new money required will depend on what extent the holders of the maturing bonds will convert. If they turned in their securities 100 per cent for the new issue, only $15,000,000 additional subscriptions would be required.

The Department of Finance will handle the selling campaign direct. In former loans, a national committee of prominent financial men was in charge of the arrangements. To-morrow morning every branch bank and every bond house will receive from the department instructions as to the loan. The final details as to the exact interest rate will not be made known until Tuesday morning, when the subscription campaign begins.

The present plans call for the campaign to last ten days, but Rt. Hon. F. N. Rhodes said to-day he expected it to be fully subscribed in less time than that.

Snappy Double Play Retires Washington in Eleventh With Bases Loaded; Ryan Drives in Winning Run

Griffith Stadium, Oct. 6.—Smart baseball in the eleventh inning to score one run and brilliant defensive play to retire Washington after they had loaded the bases in their half of the inning gave the New York Giants a 2 to 1 victory over the National League champions in the fourth game of the world baseball series here to-day.

It was one of the most thrilling and spectacular contests in the history of the classic and had the thousands of fans in a panic. It marked the second series victory for Carl Hubbell, ace southpaw of the National Leaguers, who allowed Washington eight hits.

ONE MORE TO WIN

The Giants now lead three games to one and need only one more victory to clinch the championship. The fifth game will be played here to-morrow.

The winning run in the eleventh came after some great inside baseball. Jackson opened the inning by bunting down third base to catch Bluege, Washington third baseman asleep, and it went for a hit. Mancuso sacrificed Jackson to second. Ryan followed with a single to left field scoring Jackson. Hubbell came through with a hit to left centre. Ryan going to second. At this stage Manager Cronin yanked Monte Weaver in favor of Jack Russell. The next two men went out in order.

SENATORS GAME
Washington made a game effort to pull the game out in their half. After Schulte had singled Kubel bunted down first base line and was safe.

Ottawa, Oct. 6.—Gold produced in July amounted to 255,000 ounces compared with 261,411 ounces in June and 250,371 in July, 1932, says a report issued by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics. Production during the seven months ending July totaled 1,713,579, a decrease of more than 13,000 ounces as compared with the corresponding period in 1932 when 1,731,501 ounces were produced.

Ontario led the provinces with a production of 180,523 ounces. Quebec was second with 33,845, and British Columbia third with 24,214 ounces. Manitoba's output was 9,509 ounces, while forty-three ounces were produced in Nova Scotia and Alberta. Alluvial gold production in the Yukon totaled 4,771 ounces.

The July gold output of the world was 1,935,000 ounces compared with 1,935,000 ounces in the previous month, says the report, and world production for the seven months ending July was 13,708,000 ounces compared with 13,376,000 in the corresponding period of 1932.

THRESHING IS DELAYED BY RAIN

Canadian Press
Montreal, Oct. 6.—Rains have delayed threshing operations in the prairie provinces and caused some lowering of grades but have improved soil conditions and pasture, according to the report of the Canadian crop report. Threshing is practically completed in Manitoba and the southern part of Saskatchewan and Alberta, the report says, but considerable grain is unthreshed in the northern districts of the latter two provinces. In British Columbia, tomatoes have been damaged by frost and the large crop that was indicated will be reduced to about an average yield. Onions and potatoes are being harvested and yields of 100 per cent and 80 per cent respectively are expected. Apple picking is at its height. The crop is of excellent quality and a yield of about 85 per cent of average is in prospect. Pasture is in good condition.

Vancouver, B.C., Oct. 6.—A decision to immediately set about raising the $3,000 or $4,000 needed by a considerable number of students for this year's education at the University of British Columbia was made at a meeting of a special committee of the Board of Governors at the Point Grey institution Monday.

MOVING DAY WAS COSTLY

Canadian Press
Detroit, Oct. 6.—It was moving day, explained Modie Gray, thirty-three-year-old negro, when he was arrested with a razor in his pocket. "But," asked recorder's Judge John P. Scallen, before whom he was taken on a charge of carrying a concealed weapon, "what other personal effects did you move?"

"Just the razor," Gray replied. "That's my only personal effect."

"Two to five years in Jackson Prison," said the judge, "and leave the razor behind."

"In times like the present, when there is so little opportunity for these young people to obtain alternative useful employment, while the need for trained intelligence and educated leadership in the community remains as great if not greater than ever, the loss to our country is especially great if the best brains among our youth, as selected by our educational system, are prevented from obtaining their normal development in a complete university course," states the brief submitted to President Klineck and the special committee by Professor Logan, chairman of the joint faculty committee on prizes and scholarships.

Harvest Time On In Pent-house Farms

New York, Oct. 6.—New York is developing an entirely new breed of folk—penthouse farmers!

Harvest time has come to them with all its pungent, autumn fragrance. The biggest and most successful penthouse farmers are the Kerrigans, who occupy a skyscraper building in the East 80's. The Kerrigans are now gathering their first real harvest from dozens of little dwarf pear and apple trees, every one laden with gorgeous, colorful fruit. It has required several years, the addition of many feet of good rich earth, a careful selection of trees and scrupulous care of every one of them to grow fruit in a Babylon-hanging garden. Thought they experienced fewer blights than grounded gardens know, still they have had to work out a method of a system of daily bathing for their little trees and shrubs as any Miss America might advocate. However, their pride in looking out their penthouse windows through their colorful fruit trees this autumn and the fragrant, cloyerly smell that greets them has repaid them for all their trouble.

DON'T BE SATISFIED WITH LESS THAN 8 CYLINDERS

The trend is toward the V-8. It's the coming car. And the Ford V-8 gives you eight-cylinder performance WITH ECONOMY . . .

NEW FORD V-8 $650 up.

(F. O. B. East Windsor, Ontario. Bumpers, spare tire and taxes extra. Small down payment. Convenient terms.)

NO DOUBT OF IT—the V-8 is the coming car. It has the smooth speed and power that you've always wanted. And Ford has found a way to combine eight-cylinder performance WITH ECONOMY.

When we say economy we mean economy all down the line. Low first cost. Owners report 22 to 25 miles per gallon. Low up-keep cost. (Ford parts cost less than other low-price cars and Ford flat labor rates are more than 30% less.)

And remember this . . . when you buy the Ford V-8 you are protecting your investment. You are buying the coming car—a car that is at least a year ahead in design and performance. It won't depreciate quickly or be out of date a few months after you buy it. There isn't a low-price car on the market today that comes even close to the Ford V-8 in quality, speed, safety, comfort and all-round motoring satisfaction. It has many extra-value features not found in any car selling under $1500.

All we ask is this—See the big Ford V-8 with the 112-inch wheelbase and ride in it. Compare it point-by-point with any other low or medium price car. Take it out on the road for the most grueling tests you know how to make.

You'll know then why so many owners say—"It's the finest car I have ever owned—regardless of price."

The Citizens Cheered this Product of British Columbia Industry . . .

AUGUST 31, 1882, was a great day for the thriving port of Nanaimo. On that day was launched the barque "Nanaimo", the first sea going vessel ever built in British Columbia.

Built entirely of fir from the surrounding woods, the "Nanaimo" was a credit to her builders. When rigging was completed, she carried a full load of Island coal to Oakland, California.

Citizens of the times realized the importance of thriving British Columbia industry. They supported the efforts of the British Columbia workers an opportunity to prosper by their labors and spend their money at home.

Eighty-two per cent. of the cost of a ton of coal goes to B.C. miners in wages, which in turn is spent at home.

The fact that you are getting thirty per cent. more heat for twenty per cent. less cost when you buy Island Coal, is sufficient reason for you to support home industry.

Remember, every dollar spent unnecessarily for imported fuel increases British Columbia's unemployment problem.

Unemployment cost British Columbia approximately ten million dollars last year. For the sake of economy, both on your heating bill and tax bill . . .

GOOD NEWS ALL ROUND

There are many signs that Canada is gradually pulling herself out of the slough of economic despond, either with the help of an impetus to which she has not been able to contribute very materially or by the psychological effect of renewed confidence in the future. There is a better feeling abroad; bank clearings show a steady if not a spectacular increase over a year ago. Carloadings are higher. There is a slow improvement in external trade which, The Times thinks, could be turned into a more rapid improvement were the fiscal policy of the country less rigid.

In this latter regard, perhaps the news from Australia will be cheering to the government at Ottawa. When Premier Lyons introduced his budget in the Australian Parliament at Canberra yesterday, he announced a cut in customs taxes amounting to $30,000,000 and a surplus in the treasury of $14,000,000—which he expects to surpass after another year's business. Here are the details of tax reductions:

1. From 5 to 10 per cent on all protected goods entitled to admission under the British preferential tariff.
2. From 5 to 10 per cent on certain selected raw materials of the class contained in goods covered by 1.
3. Abolition of existing primage of 4 per cent from all goods (except newspapers) entitled to admission under British preferential tariff.
4. From 4 to 10 per cent on certain raw materials, and capital goods entitled to admission under British preferential tariff.
5. From 4 to 10 per cent on printing papers other than newspaper.
6. Abolition of the 10 per cent primage on Hessian.
7. From 4 to 10 per cent on a small group of miscellaneous items.

It should be noted that the reduction of the tax rates have been lowered by the budget provisions; the land tax is cut in half; the super tax on property income is virtually abolished; old age pensions are increased; some civil service salaries are restored to their old levels. Add these on to the reductions of tariff duties, especially as they apply to empire products, and we get the picture of an Australian programme which must be gratifying to the people of that part of the empire.

Two years ago, it will be recalled, Australia was almost in a state of economic despair. Of all the British countries it seemed to be suffering most from the depression which had engulfed the whole world. Now comes the cheerful news that if all her troubles are not behind her, the dismal prospect of practical bankruptcy no longer confronts her. As Rt. Hon. Stanley Bruce, Australia's High Commissioner in London, told the Canadian Press representative at Geneva to-day, all nations "must see in Australia's budget, combined with the League of Nations' economic reports, signs of considerable encouragement. They will be heartened to learn that Australia, which was hit the hardest, is the first to have taken steps to recover, with the result she is now showing more success in the direction of return to prosperity than any country in the world."

Let us take the case of Australia's neighbor—New Zealand. A $25,000,000 conversion loan was this time oversubscribed in London to-day. It was in three and one-half per cent bonds, and it went to a premium of three-quarters of one per cent. We are also told that New Zealand is embarking on a campaign to attract one million British settlers. India, incidentally, reports for August a fifteen-per-cent increase in exports over July and an increase of forty per cent over the corresponding month of last year.

Latest reports on unemployment from Great Britain contain a similarly hopeful trend, with many industries increasing their output, particularly the steel industry. The plants of Sheffield, for instance, are producing more steel than they were in pre-war days—27,000 more tons than a year ago.

Our neighbor on the south, although it may not have discovered the panacea for all its economic ills in NRA, obviously is getting practical results from its recovery programme, results which will have an important bearing on Canada's recovery, for forty per cent of this Dominion's total trade still is done with the United States, high tariffs on both sides of the border notwithstanding. Taken altogether, therefore, the reports from Australia, New Zealand, India, and Great Britain—not to mention South Africa, where a recovery programme is in process of formation—the Commonwealth at least seems to be leading the world to better times.

DR. MANION GIVES THE CUE

Yesterday's session of the Assembly of the League of Nations was marked by a barrage of criticism of Germany's treatment of her Jewish population and the summary rejection of Chancellor Hitler's conception of an ethnic German nation—a nation not limited by political frontiers.

Hon. R. J. Manion, Minister of Railways and Canals in the Bennett government, the leader of the Canadian delegation at Geneva, opened the day's discussion, and while he made no specific reference to Germany, he explained to the assembled delegates in convincing style how this country has successfully composed its minorities problem on the principle of equal rights for every race and religion, an unfettered press, and free parliamentary institutions.

Although a state of perfection may not be attainable, Dr. Manion quite rightly contended that our conditions in regard to minorities are about as near perfection as any country can attain. Not only are two great races represented in the free institutions to which the Canadian leader referred, but in the House of Commons at Ottawa sit members originally from European countries—with at least three of the Jewish faith.

The inference to be drawn from Dr. Manion's remarks naturally is that if Canada has been able to settle her racial, religious, and other similar problems—much more complex at one time than Germany's are at present—the Germans could do likewise if the will to do so really existed. The fact is, of course, with Chancellor Hitler in his swashbuckling mood, Germany has neither the intention nor desire to emulate this country's example.

Nor is Canada the only part of the British Empire which has had to solve racial problems; with the Canadian example before her South Africa set about her task after the act of union began to operate nearly twenty-five years ago, and now British and Boers sit in the same Parliament, their old quarrels completely forgotten. It was not a simple matter in South Africa to smooth the way to the present state of affairs; but the free-running machinery of representative institutions won the day. Canada and South Africa are two examples for Chancellor Hitler to consider.

One of the developments of the anti-Jewish campaign in Germany, incidentally, is a proposal to establish a bureau under a high commissioner to deal with the plight of Jews who have either been compelled to leave Germany or who have left in fear of consequences which might at any time befall them. Such an organization would embrace in its care Jews not German citizens as well as other refugees irrespective of nationality.

It is to the credit of the League that it has gone on record in condemnation of the Hitler policy of persecution, since it regards the creation of a non-Aryan German state as a direct violation of the fundamental principles of the League Covenant. Canada, particularly, may well be gratified with the manner in which Dr. Manion presented this country's experience in connection with this matter.

PROBLEM OF THE IDLE

"Absence of occupation is not rest; A mind quite vacant is a mind distressed."—Extracted from the first of a series of bulletins issued by the Canadian Council on Child and Family Welfare dealing with the idle time of compulsorily idle Canadians.

One of the major problems which all the industrial nations of the world have been called upon to face since the beginning of the century has been the problem of leisure. During the early years of the 1900's, and indeed right up to the outbreak of the Great War, it was only in part realized that the increasing use of mechanical and electrical equipment would inevitably bring this problem in its train. The war-time years witnessed a feverish concentration on a single task which threw all other considerations into the background. Subsequent events, however, with extreme fluctuations in business, the council's bulletin states, have simply forced the problem into such prominence that it can not be neglected. Any nation which as a whole is disposed to believe that it can be left to take care of itself can only assume such an attitude at its peril.

If the above elements in the current situation in Canada, as elsewhere in the world, may be accepted as true, it will be well to examine the conclusions which have been reached in other countries than Canada as to the needs of the situation. In the United States, for the past quarter of a century, civic enterprise has been shown in practically all large cities in providing both indoor and outdoor recreational facilities for children and adults, designed to fit the needs of the people at all seasons of the year.

Examinations of surveys of recreational facilities made there during the past ten years reveals the fact that both public and private recognition of the responsibility which exists in this matter has resulted in the establishment of departments of civic government whose specific task it is to meet the need. Although there has been some reduction in the numbers of professional workers as recreation leaders during the period of restricted business, and less money has been available to cover the cost of recreational services, there does not appear to be any intention to abandon such work entirely, but rather a tendency to make more generous use than before of voluntary assistance from leaders who have had experience in the work or who indicate by their enthusiasm that they are likely to carry it on successfully.

A MODERN SOCRATES
The Hemlock Item in Tillamook News

The people who work on one of the tobacco farms in this locality got a surprise by seeing a long man drink five pounds of extracted honey in four minutes. He won the bet; the bet being if he drank the five pounds in five minutes, the owner was to give him twenty-five pounds. If the young gentleman could not drink the honey in the time set he was to pay for the five pounds. He won. We all congratulate him and he is still feeling fine.

AS SHORTENED
The London Times

For more than half a century an abbreviated form of the name of the Anglesey village Llanfairpwllgwyngyllgogerychwyrndrobwllllandsilogogoch has been used at the railway station on the London-Holyhead line, on the L.M. and E. Railway, but last week the full name was blazoned on a placard twenty-five feet long. This is understood to be in honor of the visit of Prince George to the residence of Lord Anglesey. The name is commonly shortened to Llanfairpwllgwyngyll, meaning "the Church of St. Mary by the white hazel pool," to Llanfair P.G., and even to Llanfair. The full name contains fifty-eight letters and nineteen syllables.

DO BUSINESS OPENLY
The Kitchener Record

Secrecy in the conduct of civic business is to be deplored except in exceptional cases. If members of a council or school board have a good case, they have no need to fear the criticism or the suggestions of the general public; for the average ratepayer gives them credit for using their best judgment.

It is an old saying that those who pay the piper are entitled to call the tune. That is exactly how the average ratepayer feels about business transacted by councils and boards. Rare indeed should be the cases where meetings are closed, and then the press should be taken into the confidence of the private meeting as a link between those in authority and the paying public.

ALONE

AN INTERESTING and profoundly significant symptom of modern civilization has lately appeared in London. There, in the Victoria Station, some enterprising fellows have established a little movie theatre, where a person waiting for a train may beguile ten minutes or half an hour for sixpence. I this way a method of sitting down in silence with nothing to keep the mind occupied but its own thoughts is avoided.

This, I say, is profoundly symptomatic of the modern mind, and if the ruins of the station cinema are dug up in future ages historians then will find them more significant than the records of the present provincial election, for instance. Perhaps, indeed, the desire of the modern man for continual diversion of the mind, his horror of being alone on his own resources, even for ten minutes, is the most remarkable feature of our whole civilization.

Your uncivilized man can go along for days or years without any of these outside stimuli. I have often been with woodmen and cowboys who could sit for hours on a log or a hillside and never say a word, quite happy. But put your civilized man on a log or a hillside for half an hour, and he will want a newspaper or a novel, or he will rush off to a movie or a beer parlor. The modern mind has become so utterly dependent upon outside support that it is rapidly losing not only its capacity for thinking, but for enduring itself.

Your civilized man can stand almost anything. He can live in a jungle of bricks and mortar, scarcely ever seeing the sun or a blade of grass. He can crowd together and jostle and be jostled all day and sleep in a rabbit warren all night. He can suffer war and pestilence and depression. He can stand anything but his own thoughts because, despite all his education, they are growing more and more intolerable.

PURCHASING POWER

YOU READ a lot these days about the purchasing power of the dollar, and until you have been rather sick of it, and a little sceptical. But let me show you how the purchasing power of the farmer works out. George Pudbury has ten trees of Italian prunes, fine purple fruits hanging in great clusters like jewels. He calculated that he would harvest nearly two tons of prunes this year and sell them to the grocer down at the crossroads at four cents a pound. By deep figuring with the stub of a pencil on the door of his barn, he concluded that he would make $160.

Mrs. Pudbury heard about it and demanded her share. Mr. Pudbury agreed to give her half and said that with his $80 he would buy Alex. Beak's radio, since Mr. Beak aspires to a finer model. Mrs. Pudbury said she would buy Mrs. Glumby's electrical washing machine, and Mrs. Glumby planned to spend her $80 replastering and papering her little box of a house, which badly needs it.

Thus the ten prune trees of Mr. Pudbury were going to enrich the radio dealers of Victoria, who would hand it on to the butcher, the baker and the candlestick maker, while the plasterer and the paperhanger would get enough to pay their grocery bills and some fuel for the winter. The rapid turnover of Mr. Pudbury's prunes would have the effect of circulating probably ten times that much purchasing power before the money found its way into sterility in some bank.

Well, Mr. Pudbury picked his plums with great labor, all his children assisting him, and the little boy and girl from next door gorging themselves almost to the breaking point at the bottom of the trees. But by the time they were picked, the price of prunes had suddenly dropped. The grocery at the corner couldn't handle them. They had to be sold for jam at a cent a pound; so there was only $40 for Mr. Pudbury, and after a family consultation.

SIDE GLANCES

By George Clark

"I hope you're satisfied: Killing off all of Canada's wild animal life."

tion lasting far into the night, it was decided that, since times were so hard, the whole amount had better be put into the bank where it would be safe. Multiply that by some millions and you understand what the ruined purchasing power of the farmers has done for the economics of North America.

WILD ECONOMICS

SOMETIMES I WONDER where Ottawa gets its economics. Certainly not from Mr. Pudbury's prune trees. Sometimes, indeed, I wonder whether it gets any at all. The latest notion which comes from the capital is that we can buy our way back to prosperity in Canada; that if we all rush out and buy enough things we can end the depression. This is supposed to be the Canadian version of the NRA, which we will never follow. The plan, I should imagine, must be faintly annoying to the average Canadian citizen who is broke. I mean, when a household is scraping along with just enough to eat, and four payments behind on the life insurance, it must be rather aggravating to have an eminent statesman come along and say: "My friends, the trouble with you is that you aren't spending enough. If you were patriots, you would go out and buy more goods and then the whole country would be prosperous. It is your stubborn refusal to spend which is making the depression continue."

That, of course, is only a superficial view of the situation, but basically the economics of the government are cockeyed. This country can't spend its way back to prosperity. It can't even spend enough to keep going on its present starvation basis or to maintain payments on its national mortgage. Mr. Bennett is quite right in his assertion that this is an exporting nation, and is not self-dependent. Its entire equipment of civilization, its cities, railways, harbors and, above all, its enormous burden of public and private debt are supportable only if we export huge quantities of goods.

We can't begin to eat our grain or fish, or use our timber or minerals. If we can't sell them abroad two things can happen (1) We can starve to death among the ruins of our idle factories and unploughed farms, or (2) we can go through such a wringing-out process, such a cancellation of debt and such a collapse of all property values as will be very unpleasant for prince and pauper, and start afresh on our own with a kind of peasant civilization. But we can't be self-contained and avoid both these things, and that is where Ottawa's economics get off the track.

George McCann, proprietor of the Victoria Steam Dry Works, had a narrow escape yesterday afternoon when his horse, through the breaking of the bridge, bolted from Brayshaw's carriage works, Chatham Street, and dashed at full speed along Government Street as far as the Causeway, dragging the rig in which Mr. McCann sat helplessly. Just as the horse reached the Causeway, the wheels skidded in the car tracks, and the rig was hurled against the first lamp post. Mr. McCann was thrown nearly twenty feet, alighting on his shoulder and arm on the roadway. Beside being badly shaken his head was slightly cut over his right ear.

That this league will not take part in any Sunday football games, and that if the Pacific Coast Football League will not allot other dates to Victoria than Sunday, the league will refuse to play the Sunday games and forfeit the points to the opposing club.

The forgoing resolution was carried unanimously at the meeting of the Victoria District Association Football League held last evening, at which Rev. A. E. Roberts, of Victoria West Methodist church, was in the chair, and the clergy of Victoria and protested against the playing of Sunday football by the players of Victoria.

Said the little boy next door during his mother's tea party yesterday: "Who these funny ladies, eh?" "Shush, shush," said his mother, "these are mother's guests." "Fat," said he, looking at the rotund Mrs. Beak and so. "Shush, shush, you mustn't say such things," said his mother. "Cow-moo," said he. "Fat cow, moo." "Go into the kitchen immediately, you bad boy," said his mother. "You should apologize to the ladies." "Blighers," said he (no doubt the result of association with Mr. Beak). "You wicked child, go this instant," said his mother. "Oh, hell," said the little boy next door. He was carried hurriedly from the room and the little girl next door was told to keep him away from Mr. Beak's garden after this.

THE RHYMING OPTIMIST

By ALINE MICHAELIS

IN FAITH

The path I love is the path my feet have never, never known.
The hand I love I have never clasped
With the pressure of my own.
And the voice I love has come only in
On a strange wind blown.
I have not yet crossed the sill of the house
Where I could dwell content
And trust with the fiery pride of youth,
And be glad after youth was spent
With the tenderest of tears, I had
All that life's quest meant.
But serene I wait, for I know my steps
I shall class one day the hand I can love
I shall dwell in the house of my desire,
With its white-walled bliss.

(From The Times Files)
While the present weather conditions continue, and until there is sufficient fall of rain to augment the supply necessary for the operation of the Goldstream plant, the present arrangements in connection with the running of the cars and the electric lighting will not be altered, is the announcement made this morning by A. T. Goward, manager of the B.C. Electric Railway Company.

Sir Thomas Shaughnessy, president of the C.P.R., has accepted the invitation of the Victoria Board of Trade and citizens of Victoria and will be accompanied by them on his next visit to this city. This will be in the course of his annual inspection of the line and will probably take place within a month. The acceptance was contained in a telegram received this morning by Simon Leiser, president of the board.

The Simon Fraser historical exhibit is to be set up in the city hall in order to show the development of the province from the time of the first settlement to the present day. The exhibit will be a collection of pictures and Indian curios. At the meeting of the city council last evening a letter was read from R. E. Gowanlock, provincial archivist, asking for permission to use either the third floor of the civic building or else the council chamber.

George McCann, proprietor of the Victoria Steam Dry Works, had a narrow escape yesterday afternoon when his horse, through the breaking of the bridge, bolted from Brayshaw's carriage works, Chatham Street, and dashed at full speed along Government Street as far as the Causeway, dragging the rig in which Mr. McCann sat helplessly. OUR PROVINCIAL ELECTION

To the Editor:—Elections of British Columbia appear to be a case of the chaos and confusion that attended non-party government until the McBride government adopted the system under which we have been working since 1903.

The idea of permitting an individual to form a government and control its actions, means simple "dictatorship" without responsibility, as was shown on many occasions, during the regime of the various leaders, before the party system was adopted. Since the present Premier also took upon his shoulders an endeavor at forming a "non-party party," we have seen how he simply refused to even let the members of his cabinet know where they stood, deserting them when he realized the muddle into which all concerned had made of the affairs of the country. Since confidence in the Premier has been lost, and the Premier has been elected, without including the administration that lasted only a short time and were displaced in the House on want of confidence motions. In all cases the Lieutenant-Governor, appointed by the Dominion Government, called on a member of the Legislature to form a government. The latter selected supporters considered able to bring with them members of the Legislature sufficient to hold the Premier and his cabinet in office until the term of the Legislature expired. Considering the extent of territory over which this province extends, elections are costly and, as a rule, bring about loss of time with the disrupting of the affairs of the country. When the "party system" was in vogue this was obviated. The party submitted a "platform" on which it went before the electors, and was either sustained or defeated. Prior to the introduction of the "party system" the Legislature passed through many hectic seasons. At one time the electors of Victoria stormed the House during the night session, and forced the government to resign forthwith. Other governments did not last one year. The "electoral map" was changed, as it has been recently, to suit the party in power, without considering the minority in the House. Borrowing powers were granted beyond reason. The electors looked to the "Premier," the "Dictator" of the Legislature for all the good and evil results of "Non-Party" government.

We shall need a government with a majority of supporters; in order to immediately take hold of problems left by those who considered that their party could not win the election. A test of their past conduct in office. The Liberals have selected their candidates, all pledged to conduct the government of the country faithfully and efficiently, while those who are running for office outside the Liberal Party are making individual promises that will bring about another year, or more, of contention.

The people of to-day want action—quick action—on the part of their representatives. We are in this so-called depression with the rest of the world, and we must work our way out of it. We have the ballot—all that any party can give us. We should have real Democracy in the ballot system. What more can these new-

Charles A. Stewart, San Francisco Hotelman, Tells of Improved Outlook

Travel should be better next year, in the opinion of Charles A. Stewart, owner of the Stewart Hotel, San Francisco, who is at the Empress Hotel to-day.

"The tourist business to the Pacific coast was below par this year because everybody was heading for the World's Fair at Chicago, but from present indications there will be a considerable travel movement out to the Coast next season," said Mr. Stewart. "The nights Templar convention, which is scheduled for next August, is expected to attract between 8,000 and 10,000 people to San Francisco."

Veterans Wire Strong Protest to Ottawa on Change in Pensions Board

Removal of Hon. Murray MacLaren, Minister of Pensions and National Health, and abolition of the new Canadian Pension Commission is demanded by the Pro Patria Branch of the Canadian Legion in a telegram sent to Premier Bennett protesting against the recent change in the pension board.

Recent actions of the board in allowing down pensions led to this demand, the wire states.

Following is the complete text: "All members Pro Patria Branch Canadian Legion strongly protest recent appointments Canadian Pension Commission, and urge new deal. All feel that personnel as now constituted entirely out of touch with sympathetic consideration veterans affairs require. Opinion strong present personnel quite unfit to rightly interpret wishes of Canadian public and war veterans as expressed by beneficial legislation 1930 and 1931. Recent action of board in ruthlessly slicing and cutting off pensions in this branch's opinion requires complete abolition of present chairman and associates, and also Minister Department of Pensions and National Health."

The message was signed by J. H. Frank, president of the branch, and C. A. Gill, the secretary.

LLOYD GEORGE UNVEILS LEWIS CARROLL MEMORIAL

Lloyd George, veteran British statesman, unveiled a memorial to Lewis Carroll, the author of "Alice in Wonderland," and similar works, at Llandudno, North Wales, recently. Carroll first told the Wonderland story to little Alice Liddell at Llandudno, and the monument shows the white rabbit against a tree-trunk with an inscription commemorating the inception of that "literary treasure, Alice in Wonderland," which has charmed children for generations. Lloyd George is shown above speaking at the unveiling ceremony.

As yet, things are certainly beginning to pick up a bit in California, and everybody is hopeful for the future," said Mr. Stewart in telling of conditions down south.

HOTELS HIT HARD

"The hotel business has been hit harder than any other business by the depression, but I am glad to say the hotels are doing better now," he said.

Whenever he gets an opportunity, Mr. Stewart comes to Victoria to look up his many friends here.

"I always enjoy coming here, and I like the people," he remarked.

Mr. and Mrs. Stewart, who have been motoring on the island, drove into the city Wednesday from Nanaimo and they plan to take the afternoon boat to-day for Seattle, from where they will drive to San Francisco.

The Stewart Hotel is one of the popular hostilities of the Golden Gate city, having 400 guest rooms. Mr. Stewart is a Scotchman by birth.

HEMORRHOIDS OR "PILES"

Dr. Chase's Ointment relieves the itching, burning, stinging sensations almost immediately and for half a century has proven an effective treatment for this torturing ailment. Why risk an operation when this ointment will relieve you?

"Here are my results"

says Mrs. James Dangerfield of Oak Bay, B.C.

MEMO

To Qualicum Beach—104 mi.
Usually takes—4½ gal.
On Super Shell—4 gal.
Increase 2.89 mi. per gal.

"That was enough to convince me, and so I've switched over to Super Shell," writes Mrs. Dangerfield.

Now figure on top of the savings due to this extra mileage, the premium gasoline performance Mrs. Dangerfield enjoyed without having to pay that former 3¢ premium per gallon for it.

3¢ on 4 gals. = 12¢ saved

That's why you can hear Super Shell talked about all over the country! But that's not all. Letters by the hundreds tell us of more power, better fuel economy, and things you can't get a premium gasoline to give you.

Super Shell is a true premium fuel, higher in anti-knock than any regular priced gasoline. Improved, too, in the power factor and starting. From it all wasteful sluggish parts, all "gassy" fractions are banished.

Try it in your car. Keep accurate figures, as this user did. You'll see why Super Shell is the sensation of the year.

FLOWER SHOW ON SATURDAY

Many Handsome Chrysanthemum Blooms Will Feature Display Here To-morrow

The annual chrysanthemum show of the Victoria Horticultural Society will be held to-morrow in the Ribben-Bone Building, Government Street. A wealth of autumn bloom will greet the patrons of the show when the society opens the doors to the public at noon. The secretary reported this morning that the entries already classified ensure its success from an exhibitive standpoint, and with the last minute entries, which have not yet been recorded, means that this will be one of the finest shows. All the society hopes for now is the patronage of the Victoria public. To flower lovers there will be much of interest. Many new varieties of fall flowers will be on display.

In addition to the many competitive entries, space has already been reserved for commercial and other growers, which includes H. Witte, who will no doubt be featuring Michaelmas daisies and chrysanthemums, and the Capital Dahlias Gardens, Angus McKay, J. Unwin and R. O. Lamb. Very keen

WOULD REFORM DIVORCE LAWS

President of English Law Society Makes Vigorous
Plea For Change

But Does Not Advocate
Divorce For Crime Or Lunacy

By Thomas T. Champion Canadian Press Staff Writer

Spouses are one of the greatest evils
under the present system.
Mr. J. Scatton-Tiedeman, honorary secretary of the Divorce Law Reform Union, has expressed the view that Sir Reginald Lane Poole, not upholding divorce for lunacy and criminality, is overlooking the most important aspect of the situation.
"I do not agree," she says, "that divorce should be granted for desertion of four years as is the case in Scotland,
for even the Scottish law Lord, Lord Salween, thinks that three years' desertion is enough to justify divorce."
"We who seek reform do not want to make divorce easy, as our opponents seem to fear, but to make the law fair and just. An Englishman who marries a woman who is not sane or who is a criminal, is not bound to remain married to her by their inability to get freedom."

For one isolated act of infidelity by the other," declares Sir Reginald. "A man or woman can obtain a decree of divorce enabling either of them to obtain the custody of the children, and to get a settlement of money to be secured upon them for their life. Now look at the other picture. A man may physically beat his wife, may abuse her before his children and the servants, may render her life, to use a familiar phrase, 'hell on earth,' and yet she can only obtain a judicial separation from him, which does not enable her to remarry, and which only permits of her obtaining during joint lives and unsecured periodical payment of money,
so that if her husband dies a week
after the decree and her children may get no financial provision, and find themselves penniless."

Women's Workroom Ends Two Years' Fine Work

Paid Out Nearly $25,000 in Wages to Needy Women in
That Time

Splendid Reports Presented at Annual Meeting of Committee Yesterday

"All investigation of the cases is undertaken by members of the Friendly Help Welfare Association and the Victorian Order of Nurses and they repeatedly emphasized the excellent effect of the Workroom on the mental outlook of the unfortunate woman, who, through no fault of their own, are 'down and out.' These women so thoroughly appreciate the chance to work and to have a little human companionship. If the case is urgent, an investigator sees them within a few hours and a decision is made without waiting for the weekly meeting, although the usual routine is, registration one week and admission the following week, which provides ample time for proper investigation. The committee always endeavor to see without delay that the family has sufficient food and fuel until the woman can be admitted to the room and thus can earn the small amount of cash which enables her to buy the odd shoe or toothbrush, not provided for by direct relief, but often equally important for the welfare of the family."

Wages to women, 1932, $11,614.15;
1933, $13,263.35; for materials, 1932,
$1,254.40; 1933, $636.66; salaries, 1932,
$1,809.11; 1933, $1,210; expenses, 1932,
$280.29; 1933, $58.77.
Miss Wigley traced the history of the workroom, which had been made possible through the generosity of the public, and noted that the recent appel for $5,250 in cash and monthly donations had been met with a most generous response, total donations and promises to date totalling $4,667.71.
Mrs. B. H. Taylor, the honorary treasurer, presented the audited report for the year ending September 30, and was accorded a rousing vote of thanks for her work, on the motion of Mrs. P.
B. Scurrah.
Miss Lola Maxwell, the secretary, in her comprehensive report, noted that the following women's organizations are represented on the general committee: Women's Canadian Club, Victoria Business and Professional Women's Club, Y.W.C.A., Y.M.C.A.,
Auxiliary, Friendly Help, Social Service,
Local Council of Women, I.O.D.E.,
P.E.O., University Women, Native
Daughters, King's Daughters, Graduate Nurses, Girl Guides Association, V.O.N., Women's Institutes, Catholic Women's League and Eastern Star.
REPLIES TO CRITICISM
Mrs. Alex. Gillespie presented the report of the Workroom Shop on View Street, showing that the sales last year amounted to $1,118, the disbursements being: Wages, $614.10; expenses, $67.02;
the balance of $694.88 being turned in to the general treasury.
In her report, Mrs. Gillespie noted:
From time to time we hear criticisms about the quality of our goods and the workmanship. There is no doubt that a certain amount of criticism does no harm, and we, who are trying very hard to make the Workroom a success, are humble enough to take such criticism to heart and to feel that sometimes it is justified, and to try harder to see that all our work is of the best. But we, in our turn, beg for charity from those who are supporting us, and ask them to try to realize how difficult it is to make good articles out of old and shabby materials, and how those who are unskilled, those who are old, and those who are under-nourished, in fact, women who are nearly
'down and out.'

Chapter Arranged Commemoration Birthday of B.C.

Preliminary arrangements were made at the meeting of the Sir James and Lady Douglas Chapter, yesterday afternoon to carry out the yearly commemoration of the birthday of British Columbia, on Monday, November 20, owing to November 19 falling on a Sunday. The matter will be dealt with by the executive of the chapter, who will be pleased to receive suggestions from chapter members, as to the form
the commemoration shall take.

The members stood in silence at the opening of the meeting, as a tribute to the memory of Mrs. Brae, for many years past, the chapter's "mother."
A letter of sympathy had been sent to her daughter, Mrs. George Bushby, and the chapter will be expressed with Mrs. Frank Richardson, the secretary, in her illness which prevented her attendance at the meeting, her duties being very kindly undertaken by Miss Edith M. King.
The chapter heard with regret of the illness of Miss E. C. Moore, Mrs. W.
Barraclough and Mrs. Walter Burton, who has sustained a painful fall.

A sincere welcome was given to the newly-appointed educational secretary, Mrs. F. G. Berton, who interested the members in the work of the chapter from which she is transferring, the city of Dawson Chapter, of which she has been a charter member since 1918.
A magazine specially suited to school children, and published in Toronto,
Animal Life was recommended by Mrs.
Berton, and the chapter ordered fifty copies of the I.O.D.E. calendar for sale and distribution.

The Echoes secretary, Mrs. A. M.
Boyd, brought in a report of the municipal chapter meeting, and the chapter voted a monthly donation of $1 to the Red Cross workshop at the suggestion of the honorary regent, Mrs. R.
B. McMillin.

Mrs. McMillin was asked to convey the chapter's good wishes to the La-douglas City Guild, on the occasion of their nineteenth birthday month.

The regent, Mrs. Colin Cummins, appointed delegate to the semi-annual meeting of the Provincial Chapter to be held in Nanaimo on October 18, a standard bearer, Miss E. B. Hill, who also attended the meeting. The report of the Travelers' Aid of the Y.W.C.A. at the provincial assembly were received,
and Miss J. Crease read the report
of the national educational secretary.

Final arrangements for the brietes to be held in Spencer's dining room on Tuesday, October 10, were made,
and Miss J. Crease read the report
of the national educational secretary.

Weddings

Anderson-Duffy

A wedding of much interest to many friends in Victoria was quietly solemnized at the Bishop's Palace, View Street, Wednesday, October 4, when Miss Hertha Duffy became the bride of Mr. Paul Anderson, the bride wearing a pretty gown of white georgette and carrying a bouquet of white and pink carnations.

Mr. Harry Hall supported the groom.
After the service a reception was held and a pleasant time spent at the home of Mr. and Mrs. H. Hanson, 2014
Horton Road.

Central W.C.T.U. Hears Delegate

The October meeting of the Central W.C.T.U. was held yesterday afternoon, when an inspiring devotional period
was given by Mrs. C. C. Spofford, Mrs.
J. S. Patterson very beautifully sang
"The Gift," and was accompanied by Mrs. L. Robinson.

A feature of the Golden Jubilee
W.C.T.U. convention was given by Wilkinson in which she stated that an interesting feature was the reminiscence of fifty years of W.C.T.U. work
by Mrs. Spofford of Victoria; Mrs. A.
Lamb of Vancouver; Mrs. C. L. Street of Chilliwack and others, who gave good accounts of the beginning by Frances Willard in Victoria, and later in other parts of the province. The difficulties and achievements made a thrilling and romantic story. Among them was forwarded to the Y.M.C.A.
Assembly for women to have the pri-lege of balloting; the present Y.M.C.A.
Temperance education; W.C.T.U. Home, built largely through the efforts of Mrs. David Spencer, and the first hospital for women on the mainland, Mrs.
F. W. Laing reported on the resolutions.
The Central W.C.T.U. had the distinction of obtaining the highest total points in the provincial reading contest. One new member, Mrs. J. A.
Scott, was welcomed yesterday.

Follow These Simple RULES OF HEALTH

In times like these, more than ever, good health is your greatest asset. Indifferent health not only shortens your life span, but it destroys your usefulness in your work—and if you can't work up to the standards demanded to-day, there are eager thousands waiting to take your place.

Good health is not hard nor expensive to get. It is largely a matter of being sensible and reasonable in your living habits. Eat in moderation. Work and sleep with windows open. Take daily exercise in the fresh air. Don't worry. Go to bed in decent time—and once or twice a week take a sparkling glass of Andrew's Liver Salt.

This last rule is a very important one, because neglect of this rule may nullify the good effects of all the others. You see, incomplete elimination of body wastes is common, even among people who believe their systems are in good order. When you take Andrew's twice a week you help to maintain a complete elimination. Andrew promptly corrects faults which develop in the normal system from time to time. Andrew purifies and invigorates the whole system; helps to keep you fit—and you'll enjoy its sparkling effectiveness. At all drug stores. In tins, 35c and 60c—New, large bottle, 75c. The Shining Talent

By ELEANOR EARLY

(Copyright, 1929, by NEA Service Inc.)

"That's the trouble," she moaned. "I'm not practical. I'm romantic."

If only she could banish Jack from her mind! She had heard from him once, since he sailed for England with Mrs. Bulwer-Eaton. He had sent her a colored postcard of Ponte Vecchio, where she had bought the Borgias ring. There was no message on it. Only his name. But she had told him about finding his ring there, in the old silver-smith's on the corner. And he had probably gone, seeking something for Mrs. Bulwer-Eaton. Something costly, to suit the woman's flamboyant tastes. Molly had torn up the postcard furiously. And then, unreasonably, she cried, and dropped the fragments in an envelope, and sealed it, and put it away.

Red's letters cluttered her bureau drawers. They were witty, and entertaining, and she hated to destroy them. She was always meaning to gather them together, and put them somewhere, so she could laugh over them when she was old.

She wondered what Red would think of Bob's proposal. And she lay on her pretty chaise longue for a long time, meditating.

The trouble with me, she decided, "I've been idle too long. I ought to be ashamed of myself! I'll get to work on that book—that's what I'll do."

The thing had been taking shape in her mind for some time. Gradually, hazily. Like a futuristic dream, full of vague shapes and shadowy substance. The story of a woman who had loved and lost. A woman who had battled romance for a career and hated the career, and longed for love.

It must be a beautiful book, beautifully written. The cry of a lonely woman. She must find lovely words, and magnificent phrases. And she must blend them exquisitely, so the whole should be perfect. The dedication of a woman's life. A passionate woman, passionately seeking. Seeking the things of existence. The cheap trumpery, tawdry things. Fame, and money, and thrills. Satisfaction until satiety.

And when she was asked—this woman, who had turned her back on love, would be lonely. And, in her desolation, she would cry with prophet, "All is vanity and vexation of spirit."

For Molly meant, in her book, to show that the things of life are not nothing. And only the white-hot flame of love has power to comfort, and to heal.

It would be a difficult thing to write. Difficult, because it would be the baring of her own innermost existence. No longer should she keep silence to cloak her wounds. She would write her confession of failure, that all who would might read. And with sudden determination, she began work with fervid enthusiasm. Until dawn the key of her little typewriter flew up and down. She would call her book "Ashes of Desire." And her heroine should be named Lalun. When Molly was quite sure of this, she wrote a letter to have twins, and named them Lalun and Jale. Jale is a Turkish name, and means Dewdrop. Molly never knew what Lalun meant, but it didn't make any difference. It was a beautiful name, and, since she was never to have twins now, she might as well use it somehow. It seemed more appropriate for the heroine of a tragic novel than Jale, because tragic heroines seldom suggest dewdrops. Lalun had an intriguing sound that might mean almost anything.

She had a hard time getting the first chapter started. It was different than writing plays. All you had to think of for a play was action. Action and dialogue.

But with a novel like "Ashes of Desire" one must be whimsical. Tender. Profound. Molly went to her book shelves, to see how other authors did it. There was George Moore's "Sister Teresa," which was, also, the study of a woman's life.

Molly turned to the opening page: "She was conscious of her intolerance within and without her there was a strange, lifeless calm, a strange inactivity in the air and in her mind. In the landscape and in her there seemed no before and no hereafter. But a glance, inwards revealed to her the ripple of some hidden anticipation moving under the surface."

Lalun must be introspective. She wondered if it would be plagiarism, if she should begin, "Lalun was conscious of her own futility; within and without her there was emptiness."

She considered a moment, and then began, swiftly, to type. Before she stopped, Lalun had become a living, breathing woman. A creature of fire and of promise. And, because she was beautiful, she was beloved, of course.

The man who loved her was six feet one. He had dark hair, and eyes to match, laughing eyes. And a very strong, determined chin. His hair had a little wave in it, and his chin had a dimple.

Molly took the sheet out of the typewriter, to read what she had written about the man who was Lalun's lover. "Good heavens!" she thought. "I've described Jack Wells!" And so she had. It was like a portrait.

CHAPTER XL

There is a story about the younger Dumas, and how he shut himself up in a garret, and wrote a book in no time. And there is a lesser novelist who took a vow neither to shave nor bathe until he completed his book.

The chances are, however, that—in point of time—Molly beat them all. She scarcely slept until "Ashes of Desire" was completed.

Once, when she was a reporter, she interviewed Miss Amy Lowell, the poetess. Miss Lowell did all her work at night, writing in bed, propped up by sixteen feather pillows. She drew the curtains against the sunlight, and tacked black cloths over the mirrors. Because the creative fire, she said, burned more brightly at night-time, or under artificial light.

"Try it, my dear," she advised. "And never forget that genius is nine-tenths work. You've got to sweat for success." Molly had remembered. Like Miss Lowell, she turned night into day, working while others slept. She plugged her telephone bell, and told Mary she was at home to no one.

She grew pale and thin. And her eyes took a peculiar green light, and looked huge, and a little wild. She drank quarts of black coffee, and cared nothing for substantial food.

She withheld herself from even Rita, vowing that nothing should interfere with the completion of her greatest work. Once, when Red Flynn came—and refused to leave until he had seen her—she begged him not to be disappointed in her when her book proved unpopular.

"Oh, it will be popular all right," he assured her. "Everything you do is a wow."

"But this is different," she explained. "Ashes of Desire will never be popular. I don't want it to be. I want just to speak simply, truly, to the few who will understand. I never want again what the world means when it says success."

Red stared at her, uncomprehending. "What in blazes is eating you?"

"I mean it," she insisted. "I am trying now to be true to the real things."

"You look like the devil," he interrupted, looking at her pale face.

"My work is done," she told him gently, "in grief and pain. Yet I must write, or die."

He shrugged, contentedly. "Please leave me," she besought.

He went away angrily, because he thought she was posing. But worried, also, because she was thin and white. And, since he could do nothing about it, that made him angrier still. Molly watched him from her window, drawing the shade aside cautiously. He did not look back, but stepped into his old car, slamming the door furiously, and driving away in a clatter of rattling fenders and loose bumpers.

Uncle Wiggily's Little Basket

(By HOWARD R. GARIS)

Once upon a time, as Uncle Wiggily was hopping along through the woods, wondering what sort of an adventure he would have next, all of a sudden the rabbit gentleman saw a little old hoppeday lady jumping on the path. The hoppeday lady had her front paws full with bundles and packages, for she had been to the store, to do her shopping.

As Uncle Wiggily watched, the hoppeday lady dropped a bag of sugar. Luckily the bag didn't break, and the sugar didn't spill upon the ground, as it might have done. Mr. Longears quickly hopped to the little, old hoppeday lady and picked up the bag of sugar for her.

Something banged him

"Oh, thank you so much!" she croaked.

"Pray do not thank me," said Uncle Wiggily. "I love to pick up bags of sugar for hoppeday ladies. Besides, this bag was so little and light that it was no trouble at all."

In this he spoke truly, for a hoppeday lady's not very big, as you know, and a bag of sugar for her would not be as large as the bag of sugar you got for your mother when you go to the store. The hoppeday lady's bag of sugar was about the size of your thumb nail. But still she was very thankful to Uncle Wiggily for picking it up for her.

No sooner, however, did the rabbit give the hoppeday lady the sugar than she dropped her bag of salt.

"Dear me! How clumsy I am this morning!" she said as Mr. Longears picked it up for her. "Thank you!"

Hardly had she said that and tucked the sugar bag next to the bag of salt than she dropped a loaf of bread she had bought.

"There I go again!" she croaked.

"Don't stoop down. I'll pick it up for you," said Uncle Wiggily politely. This he did easily, for the hoppeday lady's loaf of bread was hardly as large as your mother's thimble. But it was nice, white bread just the same.

When the rabbit gave the hoppeday lady her bread and she thanked him, she started to hop on home, but she dropped her package of butter.

"Oh, did you ever see the like!" she cried, laughing. "How very clumsy and silly of me."

"You should have a basket in which to carry your groceries," said Uncle Wiggily kindly.

"Yes, I would very much like a basket," croaked the hoppeday lady. "But all the baskets I ever saw are too large for me. I need a very little basket in which to put my groceries and I have never yet been able to find one. But thank you for picking up my packages."

"Pray do not mention it," said Uncle Wiggily, with a low and polite bow of his tail.

Then the hoppeday lady went her way, holding her groceries very carefully, so that she dropped no more. Uncle Wiggily hopped on a little way and then sat down under a tree to rest.

"I wonder," he thought, "how I could get a basket small enough for the hoppeday lady to go shopping with? It must be very small, for if it is a large basket her bundles will rattle around in it like peas in a pod. How can I get her a little basket?"

All of a sudden, something banged Uncle Wiggily on his head and bounced off to the ground.

"That May be there's a Bad Chap up in this tree I'm sitting under, throwing things at me!" exclaimed the rabbit. He saw on the ground a large, brown horse chestnut. It was what had fallen and hit him, but it had not hurt him much. Seeing the nut the bunny said:

"I think I can make of that a little basket for Mrs. Hoppeday. It would be just about the right size for her."

Taking out his knife, Uncle Wiggily made some cuts in the brown shell of the horse chestnut. Beneath the brown shell was white meat, not good to eat for it was very bitter. The rabbit made a handle on the basket and then dug out the white meat with the point of his knife until the hollow, brown shell remained.

"Now there is a cute little basket!" laughed the rabbit gentleman. "I hope it is the right size. I'll take it to her and see."

So he took the little horse chestnut basket to the hoppeday lady, and it was just large enough for her to carry and fill with groceries, so that she dropped none of her bundles on the way home.

"Oh, how kind of you!" she croaked to Mr. Longears. "We didn't want to have to pick up anything for me."

"That's right!" said Uncle Wiggily, twinkling his pink nose.

So everybody was happy. And if the rabbit will give the money talk and an apple pie for one of its wheels, I'll tell you next about Uncle Wiggily's music box.

Horoscope

"The stars incline, but do not compel."

SATURDAY, OCTOBER 7, 1933

Adverse planetary aspects appear to rule today. It is favorable in the completion of what has been well begun, but not fortunate in the beginning of new undertakings. Women are subject to a very making men exacting and difficult to please. The family should be careful to avoid disturbing discussions, especially those relating to living expenses.

This is read as an unfavorable rule for financial matters and most unpropitious for those who would borrow money. Although week-end hostilities are fore-shadowed as widespread, disappointing omens are discerned. House party flirtations may be devoid of the usual possibilities of romance.

The government of the stars encourages the starting of new friendships with persons of opposite sex, but the friendships are likely to remain on the Platonic plane. Under this way the mind should be alert and open to constructive suggestions. It is a good day for making plans for the future. Accidents should be avoided with extraordinary care, since guns and gunpowder are foreseen, as most dangerous even for experienced hunters.

A London astrologer prophesies a new invention that will greatly accelerate the speed of ocean liners and encourage travelers to make more frequent journeys to far countries.

This is not a favorable day for seeking any sort of favors. Those who have power to bestow favors should be very careful not to be concerned with their own affairs.

Warning is given of heartburnings and disappointments among those who cover public office. The stars point out that they who seek for success should work out independent destinies.

Women will gain much by returning to the household arts. Again sewing will be fashionable and profitable, since home dress-making will only mean a few pence more.

Beauty cultivation is to assume new importance. It is predicted, for artificial aids are to be discarded by girls of good taste. Persons whose horoscope it is to have the sugar of a year of amusement and pleasure. For the young love affairs are created, but both boys and girls should be careful not to be deceived.

Children born on this day probably will be serious minded and studious. Boldness, this sign usually succeed through patient work.

Hans Holbein artist was born on this day 1480. Others who have celebrated it as "birthdays" include Henry Agard Wallack 1888 editor.

Princess Louise 61 and Versatile

Editor's Special to The Victoria Times
London, Oct. 6.—Princess Marie Louise, the King's cousin who has just celebrated her sixty-first birthday, shares with the Prince of Wales the distinction of being one of the most versatile members of the Royal Family.

In addition to being the most traveled member of the Royal Family—there are few corners of the globe which she has not explored—she is an accomplished sculptor and musician, an artist in water colors and enamels, and an expert photographer.

She is also a writer, and her description of her visit to the Gold Coast is among the best of travel books.

Like the Prince of Wales, Princess Marie Louise enjoys living the life of the people when on her travels, and she has no objection to "roughing it" now and then. On a visit to Africa she lived for a long period under canvas.

She was one of the first members of the Royal Family to travel by air and is extremely fond of motoring. On one occasion she expressed a wish that he was twenty years younger, so that he could drive a car at Brooklands.

When in London the Princess spends much of her time in social work promoted by the church, and in helping clubs for boys and girls.

Miss Fatima, a young Indian, won the British women's chess championship at Hastings, England, this year.

BIG OYSTER FARM PLANNED

Group of Island Men Taking Large Leases Near Ladysmith

Plans for production of Japanese oysters on this island on a large scale were reported under way today in connection with the leasing by the provincial government of 133 acres of foreshore lands at Oyster Harbor, near Ladysmith, to a syndicate under H. B. Thomson of Victoria.

Experiments have been under way for some time for the production of the Japanese oyster on this coast. It has been found that the Japanese oyster, which is normally considerably larger than the Olympia oyster, grows to an enormous size when transplanted to these waters, with three of them sometimes filling a half-pint bottle. It is understood that if plans to develop a market for this large oyster do not succeed, then a smaller type will be introduced for the fresh oyster trade.

The giant oyster, however, can be used in the canned soup and chopped oyster meat trade, for which it is the most profitable variety.

For years there has been considerable production of oysters at Oyster Harbor, which is set down as the most suitable area on the British Columbia coast. Under this new development the district will be stepped up to one of the largest producers on the Pacific.

With Mr. Thomson in the development are John D. Galloway, provincial mineralogist, Herbert Carmichael, retired provincial assayer, both of Victoria, and A. C. Walters, Postmaster Theo Bryant and John Bickle, all of Ladysmith.

Cumberland, Oct. 6.—Cumberland lost another of its pioneers in the death on Sunday after a prolonged illness of Thomas Howell Richards, a respected citizen for forty years. Mr. Richards was born in Breckon, Wales, and went with his family in his youth to the United States. He was one of the first to build a house on the townsite of Cumberland. He worked for many years for the Dunsmuir Company and afterward for the Canadian Collieries as fireboss, and in later years as night watchman. During his forty years in this district the family only once left the town.

Mr. Richards went to Alaska with the rush of '98 along with other miners from Cumberland and Nanaimo districts.

The survivors include the widow, four sons, Henry of New Westminster, William of Nanaimo, David and Tom of Seattle, and a grandson, Wm. McIntosh at home; one daughter, Mrs. R. S. Rae of Crofton.

Funeral services were conducted by the Rev. H. T. Allen and the remains were sent to Renton, Wash., for interment in the family plot.

ATLANTIS IS NOT LEGEND

Geologists Have Found Proof of Atlantic Continent Which Disappeared

By F. B. Colton, Associated Press Science Writer
Washington, Oct. 6.—A real Atlantis that actually existed and later sank beneath the Atlantic Ocean like the famous lost continent of the legends, was described today in the annual report of the Smithsonian Institution.

Professor Albert Gilligan, British geologist, says in the report evidence of its existence can be seen to this day in sediments now landlocked into rock formations that were reported by great rivers of this Atlantic in North America, Scotland, Scandinavia and Spitzbergen—all on the borders of the North Atlantic. Existence of these rock layers, he believes, can be explained in no other way.

Gilligan says the real Atlantis covered a large part of what is now the North Atlantic Ocean until at least 250,000,000 years ago, the end of the great "carboniferous" period of geology when the coal deposits were laid down. It did not disappear suddenly beneath the waves, however, carrying a great civilization to its doom like the Atlantis farther south described in the ancient Greek writings of Plato.

This Atlantis, the professor believes, subsided slowly through many millions of years, and a fragment of it may have remained projecting above water as recently as the time when the Norsemen were making their first trips to Iceland and Greenland about 1,000 years ago, perhaps forming an additional "stepping stone" for their voyages.

Some of the sediments washed down from the old Atlantis and how hardened into rock are as much as three miles thick, Gilligan says. They date as far back as the Pre-Cambrian age of geology, more than half a billion years ago, showing they were accumulated by rivers flowing for untold ages across the now-drowned land mass.

SAANICH WELL LOOKED AFTER

Premier Lists Large Total He Has Got For His Constituents From B.C. Treasury

Premier Tolmie, speaking at Marigold yesterday evening before a public meeting of constituents of his own riding of Saanich, told them how much he had got for them in the way of appropriations from the public treasury during the last four years.

He said the government had contributed $371,000 for road maintenance, ferry landings and relief appropriations, taken over the East and West Saanich and the Gorge roads as arterial highways to relieve the municipal taxpayers of Saanich of that expense in upkeep, constructed the fine new Craigflower Bridge, assisted the loganberry growers to market their products, and had made

Hatless Women Now May Enter Church
London, Oct. 16.—Arguing that St. Paul had no knowledge of women's hats, the Rt. Rev. Walter G. Whitlam, Bishop of St. Edmundsbury Ipswich, says in his September 16 to the diocese that it is entirely proper for a hatless woman to appear in church.

"I have remarked on several occasions of certain clergy from time to time hatless girls in church, and have noted a church where certain dimly veiled kerchiefs were provided at the porch that women might put them before they entered," he wrote. "The provision was made on the supposition that St. Paul's prohibition applies. What he said they were not to appear in church assemblies unveiled, and that is a ferret matter."

The BEST way to stop CONSTIPATION

Nothing like Fruit-a-ties

"I was a very bad way with constipation. My stomach was off-colour and I kept having headache. Quite frequently I had severe pains in my joints and muscles. The general effect was very depressing. Indeed, I felt so wretched that I was unable to give up work. Today my bowels are excellent and I certainly feel that 'Fruit-a-ties' played a large part in bringing this about. They toned up my entire system."

In support of Norman W. Liffaker, Liberal nominee for the municipality, Mrs. Smith was telling the meeting of the party's plans to immediately extend unemployment if elected to the city council.

GOOD STATEMEN

The Liberal platform had been drawn up by men of experience and vision, she said. Statecraft was a profession for which a person had to be trained and the Liberal Party was fortunate in having men who were well versed in governmental problems. A good business man did not necessarily constitute a good politician or a good government official, for he was often inclined to embody private business methods of competition into the administration. It was true, though, that there was a place for good business men in the government and Mrs. Smith believed that the administering body should consist of a cross section of all interests.

In considering unemployment the Liberal Party had prepared permanent and immediate remedies, Mrs. Smith said. The two permanent remedies were national contributory unemployment insurance and national contributory health insurance. Dealing with the former, she said, the state should realize its responsibility to those who through no fault of their own were without work. It provided a mutual benefit for rich and poor, she said, while health insurance was also a move towards relieving distress in the home.

The immediate remedies called for the embarking upon a constructive programme of public works to be made possible by a national loan. The province would be bound to get a sympathetic hearing for such a move, she felt.

SERIOUS CONSIDERATION OF SHORTER working hours and working weeks were also advocated by the Liberal platform, Mrs. Smith said, although it was realized that such a plan could only be satisfactory if wages were not lowered accordingly.

She felt these remedies were practical and the only possible ones to meet the present situation and that the Liberal party offered practical solutions to the serious problems of the present day.

SINCERE MEN NECESSARY

Mr. Whitaker dwelt primarily on the fact that only good representatives could constitute a good government, he pointed out the present crisis was often blamed on party government, but assured that a faulty party must necessarily consist of faulty members.

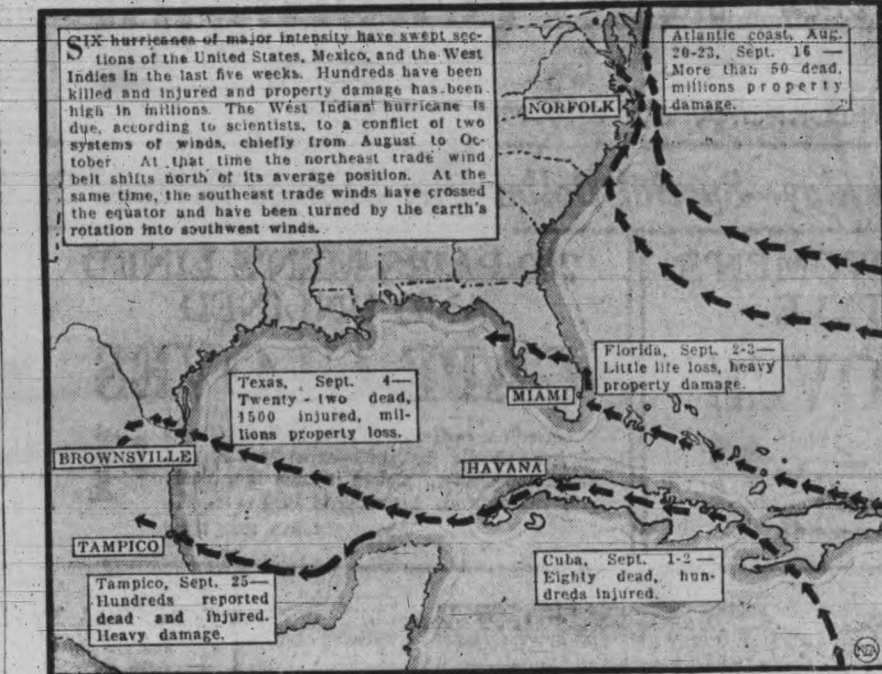

The Tolmie manifesto, recently issued, was practically the same as that which caused the Conservative landslide five years ago and Mr. Whitaker could not see how the present government could be expected to do better.

He pointed out that the provincial debt had been $104,000,000, he said, but since the Tolmie administration took office it had increased to $100,000,000.

In regard to the C.C.F. he asked, "What is the use of voting for a party whose leader has admitted the party is not yet ready to assume control?"

Substantiating this, he quoted from a speech made by J. S. Woodsworth, M.P., national C.C.F. leader, which said that the federal government was not prepared to assume government control. There

Byron Johnson reviewed developments which had taken place since the time that he had allowed his name to be put before the Liberal party as a candidate. He had experienced many misgivings about letting his nomination stand before the convention because of the fact that former politicians had not considered business contacts and prestige by accepting public office.

He had decided to consent, he said, and he publicly thanked the Liberal party of British Columbia for the courteous manner in which his nomination had been accepted and the spirit with which it had been taken.

Mr. Johnson appreciated the need for a caucus in governmental affairs as well as in any private business, he said, and he wholeheartedly supported the party had it not been for the power vested in him to vote independently of the party if he saw fit to do so.

FEW ATTENDED MACHRAY BURIAL

Canadian Press

Winnipeg, Oct. 6.—Funeral services were held here today for John A. Machray, sixty-eight, former chancellor of the diocese of Rupert's Land. A simple service, conducted by Rev. Henry Martin, pastor of St. George's Anglican Church, preceded the burial at St. John's Cemetery.

Financier and once a leading churchman, Machray died a victim to the ravages of cancer from which he had suffered for many years. Death occurred Thursday at the Stony Mountain prison infirmary where for a year he had been a patient since his conviction of financial defalcation of $2,000,000 in Church of England and University of Manitoba trust funds.

Only a few close friends attended the services. His daughter, Mrs. P. Carey, who was constantly at her father's side throughout his trial, said the end was not unexpected. A regular visitor to the bedside of her father, she said for the last three months he had failed to recognize her.

Employer and Worker Urged as Partners in Management and Profit

FREE FROM CAUCUS

Byron Johnson reviewed developments which had taken place since the time that he had allowed his name to be put before the Liberal party as a candidate. He had experienced many misgivings about letting his nomination stand before the convention because of the fact that former politicians had not considered business contacts and prestige by accepting public office.

He had decided to consent, he said, and he publicly thanked the Liberal party of British Columbia for the courteous manner in which his nomination had been accepted and the spirit with which it had been taken.

Mr. Johnson appreciated the need for a caucus in governmental affairs as well as in any private business, he said, and he wholeheartedly supported the party had it not been for the power vested in him to vote independently of the party if he saw fit to do so.

FEW ATTENDED MACHRAY BURIAL

Canadian Press

Winnipeg, Oct. 6.—Funeral services were held here today for John A. Machray, sixty-eight, former chancellor of the diocese of Rupert's Land. A simple service, conducted by Rev. Henry Martin, pastor of St. George's Anglican Church, preceded the burial at St. John's Cemetery.

Financier and once a leading churchman, Machray died a victim to the ravages of cancer from which he had suffered for many years. Death occurred Thursday at the Stony Mountain prison infirmary where for a year he had been a patient since his conviction of financial defalcation of $2,000,000 in Church of England and University of Manitoba trust funds.

Only a few close friends attended the services. His daughter, Mrs. P. Carey, who was constantly at her father's side throughout his trial, said the end was not unexpected. A regular visitor to the bedside of her father, she said for the last three months he had failed to recognize her.

NAZI SAILOR IN VANCOUVER

Vancouver, Oct. 6.—Dressed in the full uniform of the Nazi, with the Swastika emblem on his left arm, a young member of the crew of the German freighter Launus, which is now in the harbor, caused considerable interest on Vancouver streets yesterday.

It is believed to be the first time that a follower of Hitler, in uniform, has been in British Columbia. As he paraded the streets he was followed by an admiring group of German citizens who pressed him for news of the progress of the Hitler regime. He said he is a member of the Hitler guard.

of all present labor laws and insist on whatever new laws may be necessary to protect the well being and welfare of the people.

"As Christians we need to affirm that if the present order will not and cannot adapt itself to the social conditions of the present day, then it must give way to a new and just and righteous social order that will answer our problems."

"The right of all to an opportunity for self-maintenance, a wider and fair distribution of wealth, a living wage as an irreducible minimum, together with a just participation by the worker in the profits of the industry in which he or she is engaged."

"The assumption by industry of the burdens entailed by industrial accidents, disease, unemployment and death, and for the training of injured workers for continued production and self-support."

"This is the one great problem awaiting solution—a problem which demands for its elucidation not only the services of science, but religion; not only of engineers and experts; but, above all, men who are wise enough to rule and good enough to be trusted."

SPRIT OF CHRIST THE KEY

"Statesmen may pass laws for the regulation of industry, reformers may invent new schemes for a fairer division of the profits of industry; but the real and fundamental change will come only as industry is dominated by the spirit and guided by the teachings of Christ."

"Let Christ have the final word in all our individual, industrial, national and international relations, and fear will be banished, faith will be recovered, confidence will be restored, work will be provided, and peace and hope will again take up their abode in the hearts and homes of men, and in the life of the nation and the world."

One of the church's weightiest responsibilities, according to the message, is to help the men and women of this country to see clearly that "if the present economic system is to endure, society must develop adequate measures to assure steady and full employment for capital, management and labor; it must find some way to guarantee the fruits of industry alike to the employer and the employee."

FOUR FACTS IN THE CRISIS

There are four facts in the present economic crisis which magnify the basic necessity of religion, namely: "First, the interdependence of life, individual and corporate and economic conditions; second, the interdependence of economic conditions and human relationships; third, the interdependence of human relationships and religion; fourth, the dependence of religion for its interpretation and application to human life and human society on the church."

The concern of the Christian church for moral, social and industrial standards is based on the fact that Christianity in its origin and by the terms of its charter, in the New Testament and throughout its history, is committed to the ideal that human personality outweighs all other values.

Hastings, England, Oct. 6.—Approval of a resolution demanding a permanent trade treaty with Soviet Russia was the chief business before the final session of the British Labor Party conference here today.

IF YOUR EARS RING WITH HEAD NOISES

If you have ringing, buzzing noises in your ears, are getting hard of hearing and fear Catarrh of the Ears, go to your druggist and get 1 ounce of Parmit (double strength), and add to it 1/2 pint of hot water and a little granulated sugar. Take 1 tablespoonful four times a day.

This will often bring quick relief from the distressing head noises. Clogged nostrils should open, breathing becomes easy and the mucus stop dropping into the throat. It is easy to prepare, costs little and is pleasant to take. Anyone who has Catarrh of the ears, or has head noises should try Parmit as a trial.

DANCER CHANGE

In Paris Josephine Baker
Wore Only Bunch of Bananas,
But Not in London

John Drinkwater, Poet and Playwright, Now to Come
Before Public as an Actor

London, Oct. 6.—Two pieces of theatrical news have interested Londoners
this week.

John Drinkwater, the poet, who has written biographies of all kinds of people from Abraham Lincoln to Carl Lacrosse, the film magazine, is now to come before the public as an actor.

Arrangements have been made for him to appear as Prospero in the production of "The Tempest," which will follow the successful run of "A Midsummer Night's Dream" at the Open Air Theatre in Regent's Park.

As a matter of fact, Mr. Drinkwater has unostentatiously made occasional stage appearances for many years. He acted in the original London production of his own play "Abraham Lincoln" at the Lyric Theatre, Hammer-smith, and he has even taken the part of Banquo in "Macbeth."

A very different kind of newcomer
to the London stage is Josephine Baker, who has just been dancing in a Paris revue-clothes entirely in a bunch of bananas.

They are going to pay her £700 a week for her London appearances, but the censor is going to make her change her costume.

Josephine, who has a skin which is a rich coffee color, was a show girl on the New York stage until 1925, when she went to Paris and instantly conquered it by her strong personality and her vivacious dancing. She has a broad smile, like a toothpaste advertisement, and she has lived in France for so long that she says she now even thinks in French.

NANAIMO WOMAN DIES

Nanaimo, Oct. 6.—Word was received here yesterday of the death of Mrs. Mary Aiken, aged eighty-one, at the home of her son, William, in Vancouver. She was born in Lanarkshire, Scotland, and came to Nanaimo in 1882. She was prominent in church circles, being an active member of the Presbyterian Church. The widow survives three sons and four daughters alive.
The funeral will be held here.

NO DEPRESSION IN PALESTINE

Dr. T. W. A. Gray Addresses
Kinsmen Club on Experiences in Holy Land

Total of 208 Holidays, Exclusive of Saturdays and Sundays in Palestine

Palestine is the only country in the world that has not suffered from the depression in spite of the many problems arising from the diversity of its racial and religious elements. Dr. T. W. A. Gray, who recently returned from a two-year stay in the Holy Land, told members of the Kinsmen Club at their luncheon in the Empress Hotel yesterday evening.

Palestine is a small country, from Dan to Beersheba being scarcely 150 miles, and from the top of Mount Nebo—practically the whole land is visible to the naked eye. On the Mediterranean side is a low coastal plain, followed by a ridge of mountains, and then the hills and plateaus of Transjordan which border onto the desert.

The scenery and climate of Palestine are wonderfully diversified for so small a country. The Sea of Galilee is 600 feet below sea level; the Dead Sea is lower still; but between them Mount Hermon rises to 9,000 feet above the sea. In Beersheba there is less than an inch of rain every year, and in Jericho the summer temperature rises as high as 120 degrees in the shade, while Jerusalem is cool and has snow in the winter.

The country is rough, both legend and Scripture mention the stony uneven ground. The mountain ridge that runs down the centre of the land is like a backbone from which rugged ribs radiate. It is this geographical fact which accounts for the multiplicity of tribes in Biblical times. As regards the cultivation of the country, the flora are much as in Canada. Grain, grapes, water-melons and especially figs flourish, grow in abundance.

JEWS INCREASE
Ethnically, Palestine is a great mixture. Out of 800,000 inhabitants roughly one-quarter are Jewish or Christian, and three-quarters Arab. Now there are 183,000 Jews in the country, but at the end of the war, before the British occupation, there were only some 60,000.

The day when the English troops entered Jerusalem was a great one for Palestine. This is the only time in its history that the city has fallen without bloodshed. The city of Jerusalem is of no great importance as a centre except for its religious associations. To the pre-war city of 40,000 another 60,000 have been added, and now a modern city rises outside the walls, and is already beginning to lose its newness and harmonize with the old.

After showing pictures of Jerusalem, Dr. Gray went on to say that the Arab is having a hard time since the entry of the masses of Jews who have returned since the war. The motives which have prompted this return are partly patriotic love, and partly the fact that Jewish life in Palestine is a successful communistic experiment.

At the beginning of the war, the many languages of the country—Arabic, Hebrew and English are the most common—and the Balfour declaration, have given the country a new life. Many factors, however, make it difficult to maintain an orderly state of affairs. There are great ethnic and religious varieties in the country, and each religious and ethnic group is by no means homogeneous. Of the Jews many have returned from far lands not even knowing a common language. They fall into three types, the Polish, the Spanish and the Palestine Jew. The Moslems are roughly of three classes, the orthodox Persian Arab, the modernist Syrian Arab, and the fierce, Deuse—The Christians and the Jews more at unity than the other religions, a very rough division classing them as Greek orthodox, western Latin and Protestant. An interesting sidelight on the religious situation is the fact that, not counting the Saturdays of the Jews and Sundays of the Christians, there are 208 holidays of various types in the year.

The reasons for the absence of depression in this little country are the stability that follows from the British control, the wealth of the immigrant Jews, and the considerable public and private works in progress in the country.

The reaction of the Arab element to the Balfour declaration is not favourable to Britain. The Arabs contend that its purpose is to play off the Jew against the Arab, to have a military check on Egypt and the Suez Canal, and to use the great nitrate resources of the land as an explosive supply in time of war. British planes, they say, and American money have made Palestine a national home for the Jews instead of a national cemetery.

In conclusion Dr. Gray said Palestine is a country of thrilling interest, where it is fascinating to watch east and west, as typified by the Arab and the Jew working out their destiny in the same country.

In proposing a vote of thanks to Dr. Gray, Cecil Lockhart said that he had now learned that Palestine, in addition to being the origin of three great movements, Christianity, Mahomedanism and Judaism, was also a practical example of C.C.F. principles.

WILL CO-OPERATE
During the discussion of the society's business it was decided to co-operate with other clubs and institutions in the city in filling the appeal for sporting goods made for the relief camps by the Department of National Defence. Attention was also called to the cardboard boxes which are being circulated to cigar stands in the city for the purpose of collecting cigarette wrappers with which to obtain toys for the association's Christmas tree.

LEGAL QUIBBLES IN MURDER TRIAL

Canadian Press
Battleford, Sask., Oct. 6.—Little new evidence was heard yesterday in the William Bahrey murder trial as the jury was excluded for the greater part of the day while counsel argued legal points surrounding certain alleged statements made by accused, charged with murdering his brother, Alex, at Whitford last April.

While walking in his sleep, Albert Bahrey was killed by Alex Bahrey, New Zealand, and was killed.

THE Eastern Champs Rule Favorites MIRROR To Win Mann Cup

Jack Sharkey Suffers Another Detour on Comeback Trail.

Takes Two Bad Beatings But Draws Down Nice Fat Purses.

Connie Mack Big Help to Lefty Grove in His Pitching Wins.

THE COMEBACK trail, at the best a very bumpy road, has run Jack Sharkey off on another detour. That makes it twice, and even so convincing a talker as the Boston Globe soon will have trouble making folk believe he ever could fight if this sort of thing continues. Knocked loose from his title by Primo Carnera, beaten by King Levinsky and Tommy Ryan, Sharkey, if he means to go any further with his ambitious programme, already looks very much like a baseball club that is just playing out the scheduled season after season, and then the flag. Even if he wins all of his remaining bouts he is doomed to finish in the second division so far as this year goes.

With Sharkey it is merely a repetition of an age-old tale. When fighters definitely start to slip, their best friends will not tell them, and they themselves are too fast to grasp it. Of course, it is quite possible Sharkey is not utterly lacking in intelligence and in the knowledge of his own physical limitations as they exist upon him. Even at a considerably reduced wage, the one-time sailor was paid rather handsomely for his unsuccessful efforts in Chicago and Philadelphia and there are doubtless several fellows around who would take any number of belts on the nose for $25,000 or any fraction thereof.

However, it does not seem to be too charitable to accept the idea that Sharkey really was very sincere in his belief that he could fight his way back after the massive Carnera has shorn him of his title and almost removed the roof off his head. Sharkey is a thirty-three year old man, still comparatively young, mentally. But it is an age when speed and the co-ordinating mechanism of the brain go to pieces rapidly, although the fighter himself seems least aware of it. Perhaps, after the plastering he has received in his last two bouts, Sharkey has become slightly conscious of the fact that it may be something else that is holding him back when he feels he ought to let himself go.

Connie Mack, referred to frequently as the lean and kindly manager of the Philadelphia Athletics in the American Baseball League, isn't out of the playing field any more, but he must be given credit for an occasional assist. The man Connie assists now and then is Lefty Grove, who happens to be a pitcher. One of the assists referred to took place in Washington recently.

A young, ambitious lad named Tim McKeithan started a ball game for the A's. The Senators got six hits off his delivery in four innings. At the end of the fourth inning the score was 6 to 3 in favor of the A's. It appeared that McKeithan was in for a pleasant afternoon since Washington, with a pennant clinched, and with General Crowder knocked out of the box, wasn't particularly anxious to play. In fact Joe Cronin so nearly reached the point of yielding that he sent in a rookie southpaw fresh from Albany, one Ray Prim—sent out experimentally. There was no indication whatever that the Senators were about to get tough.

But in the fifth inning, when it came the young and ambitious Tim McKeithan's turn at bat, the lean and kindly Mack bade him be off to the showers. A pinch hitter would go in for him. Mister Mack looked over the bench and up and down. There were not many pinch hitters around. So he sent Merritt Cain, another pitcher, to go through the exercise of leaping the plate and swinging at a few of Prim's pitches. Now to find a pitcher to replace McKeithan. Who would pitch the A's? Five-run lead in this desperate and crucial struggle of the diamond? Why, to be sure, there was Lefty Grove sitting there as big as life and ready to letty need a couple of games to fatten his record to the point where he led the league in victories?

So Grove was sent in, and the scores dutifully put him down as the winning pitcher when the final score was 11 to 4. You see, it happens to be a custom among scores not to credit a starting pitcher with a victory unless he has pitched the full nine innings. But that particular assist might be chalked up as an error. At the end of the season the officials of the American League decided and decided that Grove should not be credited with the victory and the win was given to McKeithan. And the loss of that game robbed Grove of the league pitching championship for the season.

Earl McCready In Win Over Weaver

Toronto, Oct. 6.—Earl McCready, Amulet, Sask., scored an easy victory over Buck Weaver, Chicago "bad man," here yesterday evening in a wrestling bout. The second fall went to the westerner when he downed Weaver with a flying scissors in 11:08.

Teams Start Three Out of five-game Series at Royal City This Evening

Salmonbellies Seek Eighth Win

Hamilton Arrives After String of Victories on Trip Across Continent

New Westminster, Oct. 6.—Fresh from eastern triumphs and a successful cross-country jaunt, in which they turned back with ease all opposition, Hamilton Tigers, fifteen strong arrived here today in search of their first Canadian lacrosse title and possession of the Mann Cup. To-night at 8:30 o'clock the sturdy proponents of the gutted stick from the east meet New Westminster Salmonbellies, seven-time holders of the battered silverware, in the first of a three-out-of-five series for the championship.

Out for their eighth title and impressed by their showing on their westward trip, Salmonbellies will throw in their strongest starting line-up to-night in an effort to get the jump on their eastern rivals with an initial game win. Salmonbellies held the title from 1920 to 1923 and again in 1927. In 1928 Mimico from Toronto handed the Royal City squad a shellacking to take the "title" and it has not been seen on the coast since.

TIGERS FAVORED
Tigers, however, reputed to have one of the strongest teams ever turned out in the east in years, loom up as slight pre-series favorites. With a record of eleven straight wins and a record of eleven straight wins against them on their trip here, Tigers promise to furnish a brand of opposition tougher than any the Royal City have been called on to meet in their British Columbia schedule.

Henry Baker will be in goal for the coast team with Nels Atkinson and John Vernon on defence. Stoddard will be at rover and Bill Fraser at centre. Ray Baker and Alf Davy complete the forward line. Tigers are expected to start the same lineup that handed the Shamrocks a 15 to 4 drubbing at Calgary Wednesday night.

In addition to the famous son "Chick" who won the United States amateur golf championship twice, a record in winning the United States open in 1916 that has not yet been broken, Mrs. Evans left another son, Bud, and two daughters, Mrs. Donald Jones.

SERIES SLANTS

By ALAN GOULD
Washington, Oct. 6.—Now that Earl Whitehill has pitched the Senators back into the world series scramble with a shutout conquest of the New York Giants, the "inside story" may be told as to why the American League champions delayed sending their one best fling bet to the firing line until the third game.

"Whitehill, as most of you fellows figured, was selected by Manager Joe Cronin to oppose Carl Hubbell in the opening game of the series," revealed Clark Griffith, president of the Senators, "but he developed a sore arm for the first time in his life by bearing down too hard in a workout against the New York Yankees last week."

"Whitey" has always been known among baseball men as a "rubber arm" pitcher, the kind who could step into a training camp on the first day and cut loose if he wanted to or bear down without worrying of the consequences. He has enjoyed his greatest year, winning twenty-two games.

Had Whitehill been able to produce on the opening day the kind of pitching he showed the Giants yesterday, the entire complexion of the series would have been changed. In all probability he would have beaten Hubbell.

So what? So the Senators now have a shutout pitcher who probably won't be ready to pitch again unless the series goes the limit of seven games. Instead of having Whitehill on the same "overtime" basis as Hubbell, who drew his second "argument" for this afternoon, the Senators must make an unprecedented rally for the opportunity of playing their ace again.

"All right, let's go," was President Roosevelt's yell as he tossed out the first ball of the curtain raiser at Griffith's expense. He posed obligingly for photographers before throwing a neat wild pitch.

To the tune of roaring laughs, a pet pigeon apparently nominated itself as the Senators' new deal bird. The Nationals didn't like it. Neither did the Giants. The players of both teams pegged clouds at the intrepid bird. Luke Sewell heaved his catcher's mit. But for better than an inning it defied whistling base hits and thrown balls while strutting about the infield. It backed up the third baseman for an inning or two.

Al Schacht, Senator comedian and the best coach got himself in trouble with the rain before game time. Tempting the low-hanging clouds during batting practice, he had one of the two hands play "Stormy Weather." Promptly it rained.

Schacht waited until the rain stopped before donning a battered top hat and leading the band in "It Ain't Gonna Rain No More," and "How Dry I Am." It rained again.

Little Bobby Stewart, seven-year-old son of Walter Stewart, the Senators' left-hander, who made a disastrous start in the opening game, stole yesterday's pregame spotlight. In a full Senator uniform, several sizes too large for him, the youngster organized a game in left field with several red-capped uppers.

CANTONWINE WINS MATCH

Buts Jack Forsgren, Out of Business With Body Slam in Vancouver Bout

Vancouver, Oct. 6.—Howard "Hagman" Cantonwine, Iowa, defeated Jack Forsgren, Vancouver, in the main event on the wrestling card here yesterday evening when the Vancouver grappler was unable to answer the bell for the eighth and final round.

Forsgren's first fall in the fifth round with a leg lock and body press. In the seventh he had the Iowa man in a full Nelson near the edge of the ring when Cantonwine braced his feet on the ropes and heaved backward, falling on Forsgren, who was knocked out and unable to answer the bell for the final round.

In the semi-final, Herb Parks, Vancouver, took two of three falls from Tiger Martin, Nanaimo.

Parks won the first fall in the third round with a body slam and the second in the next frame with an armlock and body press.

Del Crowe, Bellinham, dropped the decision to Bear Shone, Vancouver, in a preliminary bout. Shone won the first fall of the match in the first round with a body press and body slam and repeated in the second to win the verdict.

London, Oct. 6.—Tottenham Hotspurs, the promoted club now holding a tie for second place in the first division of the English Soccer League, entertain Sunderland to-morrow, and for the first time in history will be under the captaincy of a Tottenham-born player.

He is Roe, who replaces Felton in the captaincy because the latter has not yet recovered from the injury he received in last week's tilt with Chelsea.

The league-leading Portsmouth eleven travel to Leicester City for a tough assignment, while Huddersfield Town, bracketed with Spurs only a point back of Portsmouth, have an equally hard job in meeting Aston Villa on the Villain's ground.

Blackburn, following their third game with the Rovers, including Jack and James.

Bolton Wanderers entertain Oldham Athletic and have no fear about losing their leadership of the second division. Preston North End travel to Manchester United's grounds.

DRAMATIC CHANGES
Fulham do not expect to give much rope to Hull City, Bradford, following their draw against Hull, are making drastic changes for the match with Burnley, particularly in their defence.

The triple tie for lead in the southern sections of the third division, may remain unaltered to-morrow for Norwich City, Charlton Athletic and Crystal Palace all have separate engagements in the northern section, Chelsea anticipates extending their lead at the expense of Mansfield Town, but even a defeat will not put them down.

Glasgow, Scotland, Oct. 6.—Kilmarnock, holding down third place in the first division of the Scottish Soccer League, will meet Dundee United to-morrow at home to administer to Motherwell the latter's first defeat of the season. Motherwell's lead cannot be taken away, for they are three points ahead of Rangers. The league champions, however, have a chance to get within a point of Motherwell, to-morrow as they entertain the lowly St. Mirren eleven at Dux Park.

First-place honors in the second division are at stake in the battle between King's Park and Morton, who each have twelve points.

ESTER STOEFEEN REACHES FINAL

Dorothy Round, British Star, Defeats Carolyn-Babeock With Loss of Set

San Francisco, Oct. 6.—Seeded players performed up to expectations for the most part yesterday as Pacific Coast quarter final matches were completed in the forty-fourth tennis championship.

The day's most spectacular tennis was presented by James Davies and Neil Brown, San Francisco, and Burlingame, both former champions trying for comebacks, as they fought down the youthful team of Donald Budge, Oakland, and Worth Oswald, Berkeley, 14-12, 6-2.

Oswold, former resident of Spokane, Wash., less than an hour before eliminated John Murio, San Francisco, in the quarter final of the men's singles, 3-6, 6-4, 6-4. Budge played a steady and consistent game, and it looked for a time in the lengthy first set as if he and Oswald would take the measure of their older opponents.

OP SEEDED WOMEN WIN
In the women's singles Dorothy Round, England, seeded number one, beat Carolyn Babeock, Los Angeles, 6-2, 6-4, 6-1. Babeock, seeded number two, eliminated Mary Healey, England, 6-2, 6-4, 6-3. The final will be played to-morrow.

The remaining quarter final in the men's doubles gave a victory to Jane Harp, Pasadena, and Marion Hunt, San Francisco, over Ted and Dorothy Stoeffen, 6-4, 6-2, 6-2.

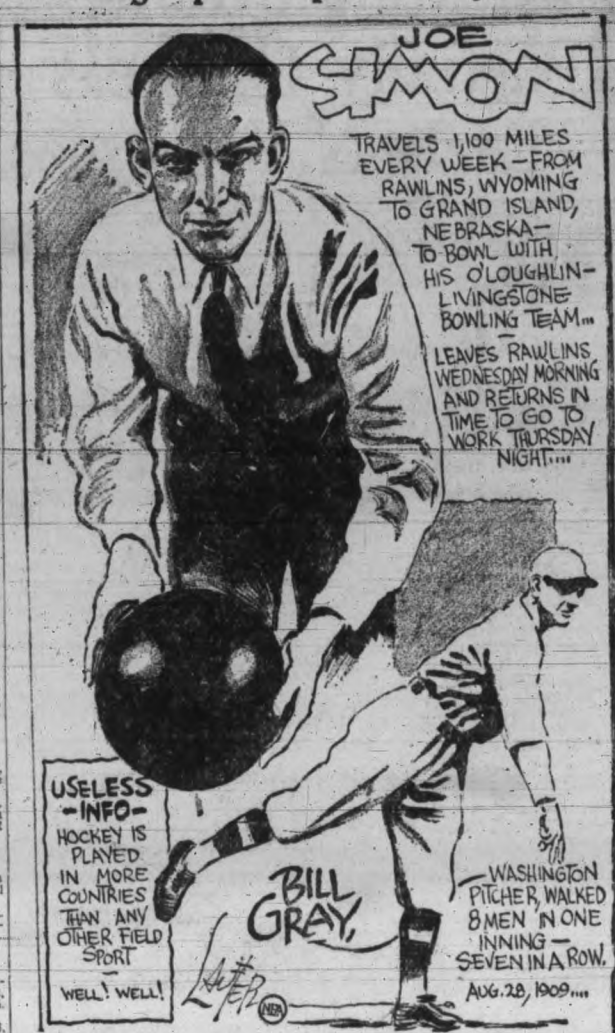

Semi-finals among the first four seeded teams were being played to-day. Lester Stoeffen, top seeded in men's singles, advanced to the finals by downing Joe Coughlin, San Francisco, the B. intercollegiate doubles champion, 6-4, 6-2, 6-1.

The last of the quarter finals in the men's doubles gave victory to John Murio, San Francisco Hawaiian, and Canadian singles champion, and Gerald Hyde, San Francisco, over the number one doubles team of the University of California, Carl Holmes and Gene Smith. The score was 4-6, 6-4, 6-2.

Semi-finals were being played to-day with Stoeffen and Coughlin meeting Brown and Davies and Murio and Hyde hashing with Stratford and Phil Neer. Completing to-day's doubles programme were semi-finals in the mixed doubles. Elizabeth Ryan and Keith Hurdhill, who yesterday defeated Marion Hunt and Stanley Almqvist, Oakland, 6-4, 6-1, met Alice Marble and Stratford, conquerors of Jane Harp, Pasadena, and Wilmer Hines, Columbia, S.C.

Miss Babeock and Stoeffen, who yesterday eliminated Mrs. L. A. Harper, Oakland, and Neer 6-2, 6-4, played Miss Healey and Avery, who yesterday beat Dorothy Swartz, San Francisco, and Larry Hall, San Jose, 6-2, 6-2.

JOHNSTONE ST. BRIDGE

Warnings given to motorists when the bridge was closed. The bridge was passed the green light before the alarm went. The alarm, in my opinion, is not loud enough; it is practically impossible to hear it when driving a car during the busy period.

I would like to hear the opinion of other motorists because I fear lack of proper warning signals may lead to a very serious accident.

NOT REWOLT
To the Editor:—In the issue of September 29, 1933, appeared a report of speeches made by T. Moir (United Front candidate) and myself at the Stanley Hall, Victoria West, which is distorted and entirely incorrect on certain points. Therefore, the following correction is made for publication.

We did not advocate revolutionary action, but I referred to the class struggle in China, where the Soviet workers were using firearms in their defence against the Chinese capitalists. This was distorted and construed to read that we were advocating revolt and revolutionary action. We advocated organizing and struggling against wage cuts, relief cuts and depression, not revolt. In my speech I spoke of revolts that are taking place in capitalist countries, China, Cuba, and I referred to the rising revolutionary upsurge of the masses in general against oppression, but did not advocate revolt or revolutionary action.

The race was in the progress of formation to meet the requirements of C. V. Whitney, who stipulated that Winooka prove his quality against the top American sprinters before meeting Equinox in a proposed match race at Belmont Park, November 7.

There are several races scheduled at Laurel during the next ten days, in which Winooka could be tested, but Rafe Naylor, manager of the five-year-old colt's tour, has held out for a match race on the winner-take-all basis. The race with Jamestown was proposed following Jamestown's great comeback in which he has won his only two starts in fast times.

nally bought by Napoleon in 1815 before his exile to St. Helena. But owing to troubles with his health, he was forbidden to drink it. He never got it for him, and when the emperor died, retained the wine.

It has passed through many hands since then, but all were forbearing enough to leave the corks intact.

action. I am fully aware of the purpose of Section 98.
I distinctly stated and emphasized that "we are not advocating force and violence, not even the use of pick handles, but we do see force exerted upon the workers in the class struggle by the state forces, while workers are peacefully demonstrating for a little more bread and butter." This part of my speech did not appear in your press report.
I did state, and again do so, that we have no illusions about capitalist democracy. That it is limited in so far as the working class are concerned, and I further substantiated this statement by referring to a report appearing in The Colonist of September 29 that relief camp workers who had not registered within a specified time have been deprived of the right to vote.
Other corrections can also be made. I can obtain most of those present at the above meeting to support my corrections.

Wild Downturn Sees Wheat Prices Tumble Two Cents To-day

Winnipeg, Oct. 6.—A wild downturn in Chicago prices sent futures values into a slump on Winnipeg Grain Exchange to-day, and final quotations were about 2 cents down from the day's high levels and 1 1/2 cents under the previous close.

Quotations in the southern market hit the low point near the finish, and Winnipeg prices, previously shaken by Chicago weakness, succumbed to heavy selling and closed at bottom levels.

October option dipped to close at 59 1/2, November, at 60, December at 60 1/2, and May 64 1/2 cents.

Exports purchased moderately in early trading, but no figure was placed on sales of Canadian wheat in this connection. Hedging pressure was still exerting its influence on prices.

Liverpool, what gave prices encouragement, but the English market's fractional upturn was offset by the decline at Chicago later in the day. Buenos Aires opened about 1 cent higher. Cash grain trading was extremely dull. Spreads generally were unchanged. Price followed the trend of wheat.

WEAKER LIST AT MONTREAL

Montreal, Oct. 6.—Activity on Montreal Stock Exchange to-day was a duplication of yesterday, and a general weakness caused by lack of demand induced a lower trend.

International Nickel was the leader in turnover, but continued selling pressure sent the price down 20, to 60 cents.

Industrial Alcohol "A" and "B" both eased 1/2 at 19 and 16 1/2 respectively, while Canadian Pacific at 13 1/2 and Brazilian at 13 1/2 were both 1/2 lower.

Montreal Power, Lake of the Woods, St. Lawrence Corporation and National Breweries held small losses while Canadian-Cat and Depey were fractionally higher. Ottawa Power preferred rose 4 points at 94.

STOCKS TO WALKERSEN

Canadian Press
Toronto, Oct. 6.—A mild rally in the last half hour cut down losses in the Toronto Stock Exchange to-day, but it was not sufficiently vigorous to give the market a strong appearance. Volume was low and losses, though narrow, predominated over the board.

Following a firm opening the market lapsed into a quiet, drifting movement that registered losses reaching up to two points by mid-afternoon. Walkers Common dropped to 45 1/2, and Nickel worked back to 19 1/2. In the late rally Walkers Common came back to 46 1/2, where it closed unchanged. Nickel finished off a fraction at 19 1/2, and Industrial Alcohol "A" unchanged at 18 1/2.

There was fair in the oils and fractional gains were shown up in the early transactions but these were erased in the afternoon. British American Oil closed unchanged at 14, and Imperial unchanged at 13.

LEIPZIG COURT JUDGE RUFFLED

Dimitroff Excluded From Courtroom Because of His Relentless Sallies

Associated Press
Leipzig, Germany, Oct. 6.—Georg Dimitroff, one of five defendants in the German Reichstag building fire trial, threw a monkey wrench to-day into the Supreme Court's efforts to air tactics of the Communist Internationale, as illustrated by himself, when his relentless sallies into cross-examination brought repeated outbursts of laughter from the spectators.

Finally, the presiding judge, Wilhelm Buenger, terminated his examination of Dimitroff by ordering the man excluded from the courtroom for the remainder of to-day's session.

Spectators laughed loudly at the defendant's reply to a request he make one volume out of some pamphlets and books confiscated from his library and arrayed in the courtroom as evidence.

The book already has been shown by the police examiner, I would never sign a guarantee for the police's verity," Dimitroff said.

The judge's ire reached a climax when Dimitroff said the protocol to the trial was a "joke" and that the jurists frequently referred to the defendant as "read," "the defendant remarked," "read the same as that which was said to be the order until the close, which found some of the leaders of the Communist International."

Commissioner Heine, who drew up the report, a liar. Thereupon, the judge read copious extracts from the Communist book, "Armed Insurrection," which was banned by the Supreme Court.

"I never finished it," Dimitroff put in, "but I might have if I had known that you banned it."

The defendant reiterated his assertions his activities in Germany were solely on behalf of Bulgarians and Communists.

PROTEST DISMISSED

Leipzig, Germany, Oct. 6.—A ruffled German Supreme Court indignantly dismissed to-day a second protest signed by foreign attorneys against the alleged mishandling of the trial of Georg Dimitroff, one of five men on trial for firing the German Reichstag building last February.

"This repeated accusation is contemptible," declared Wilhelm Buenger, presiding judge. "The matter has already been disposed of."

An attorney had read the protest, which, among other matters, alleged "that the judge had tolerated the severe mistreatment of a defenseless man and that guard should have been dismissed immediately."

The judge cited Ernst Torgler, former Communist whip in the Reichstag, and another of the accused, who questions, and revealed a wide knowledge of the defendant's movements and telephone calls.

May Take Bride To Famed Castle

Reuter's Special To The Victoria Times
London, Oct. 6.—Two years ago Frank Bostock, who ran the famous menagerie, went out of business, sold up his lions and tigers and took to gardening in a neat country house. Now, they say, he is yearning again for a circus life, and has bought two lions, three young tigers and a leopard—just in case he goes "on the road" again.

The Earl of Warwick, who married the beautiful Rose Bingham May, it is reported, shortly after his wedding at the historic Warwick Castle. The present Earl's grandmother, Frances Countess of Warwick, used often to entertain King Edward there. But between 1912 and 1927 the castle was let to an American.

Lord Louis Mountbatten has been seen swimming at a new swimming pool at Malvernhead.

The latest fashion for men, on sporting occasions, are leather ties, made in various shades of soft leather or suede.

Gordon Shields In Tennis Final

Toronto, Oct. 6.—Gordon Shields, Vancouver, and Bill Pigott, Hamilton, met here to-day in the final of the men's singles tennis championship of the University of Toronto.

Shields earned the final bracket by winning over the defending champion, Sid Hermant, 6-1, 6-1, 6-2, while Pigott eliminated Bruce Fenner, 6-2, 6-2, 6-1.

Both Shields, well known in Vancouver sports circles, and Pigott, were superior to all their opponents in the tournament and a close final is anticipated.

Is Bachelorhood Blessed State?—Happy Ending to Broken Romance Depends on Broad-minded Attitude

DEAR MISS DIX—What inducements and advantages are there in married life compared with the bachelor state? I am a young man thinking of marriage, but my male friends say, "Don't be crazy." They claim no girl is worth it in this age of loose living. They believe in the love-and-leave-um theory. How can I be reasonably sure that the girl I love now will prove to be the only one for me the rest of my life? I have known her five years and love her now more than I ever did.

Answer—The advantage of being married is that the married man is, as a rule, happier, healthier and more prosperous than the bachelor. Look about you and you will see that the leading men in every community are nearly always married men.

When God created the first man He saw that it was not good for him to be alone, and every man ever since has felt the same need for a mate that Adam had and found his life incomplete without one. The husband, the wife and the child are required to complete the cycle of life.

The take-'em-and-leave-'em theory that your bachelor friends advance never yet has made for happiness. What a man wants is not these light loves of women who care as little for him as he does for them, these mercenary kisses that are paid for. He wants the deep, abiding love of a woman who is his very own, the love of a wife who will stand by him through thick and thin, and to whom he could turn, secure of her loyalty, if all the rest of the world was against him. He doesn't want the love of a day or an hour. He wants the love that will endure forever.

Married men are healthier than single ones because they live a more ordered life. Some of the very disadvantages of marriage at which the bachelors scoff make them better risks for insurance companies than bachelors. It is because they are not so free to roam around at night, that they spend their evenings quietly at home instead of making whoopee, that they eat home cooking instead of restaurant food, and that their wives nag them about keeping their feet dry, and taking care of their coughs, and going to the doctor when they have minor ailments, that gives them length of days.

Marriage gives a man children, and that gives him an interest in life that nothing else does. He lives his life over again in his boys and girls. Often he realizes his ambitions in them and he has a pride in their achievements that he has never felt in anything he has done himself. Did you ever notice how often bachelors look dried up and withered when they get past middle age and how cynical they become and how fussy about their little ways? It is because they have exhausted their own youth and have been cut off from the springs of perpetual youth that bubble up eternally in children, but fathers remain still boys in heart and spirit long after they are bald and bay-windowed because they are fed on the youth of their children.

Married men are, as a rule, more prosperous than bachelors because it is not until after a man is married that he really settles down to his job and puts his back and his heart into it. He has a home, a wife, a family to support. He has a lot to live for. Not so many men begin to live their lives after they are married.

So, taking it all in all, though there are many drawbacks to matrimony, the married man is better off than the single one.

Of course, there is no way of telling absolutely whether any girl will be the one for you, and that your love for her will never falter. But is there any sure thing in life? We always have to take a chance, and marriage is no more full of risks than any other proposition. In picking out a wife you must use your own common sense and judgment and also take into consideration your feeling for her.

If you have found a girl that you care for more after five years of acquaintance than you did at the beginning, I would say that she is a mighty safe bet, so go along and marry her.

DEAR MISS DIX—Seven years ago when I was quite young I was in love with a fine young man. We had a foolish quarrel and in the midst of it he was called away on business and I never heard from him any more. As I thought he had given me up, I married a good man, but he only lived a short time. Later my first sweetheart has come back and has made my mother confess that she intercepted the letters he wrote me asking for a reconciliation. Now this man wants me to marry him, but he has two children whose mother was an immoral woman who ran away and left them, but I fear that I cannot take these little girls for fear they might turn out like their mother. Yes I cannot bear to give him up and the worry over it is killing me. What shall I do?

Answer—Marry the man and forget the past. Be a real mother to these poor little motherless children and rear them up into being fine women.

Don't be afraid of their heredity. Environment works wonders, and if you bring these little girls up in a clean home that is full of love and happiness and instill ideals of purity and honor in their minds, there will be no danger of their following in their mother's footsteps.

And think what a great missionary work you will be doing. What greater good could you do in the world than take this poor distraught man, with his helpless little children, and give them a wife's and a mother's love and care and comfort? And I am sure you will get your reward in having your old romance come true at last after so many trials and tribulations.

Religion of Olden Egypt

THE KINGDOM OF OSIRIS

Is met by the spirits of the dead. They pull it in a boat along a stream in the Underworld, from one country to another. There are gates to each country, and beside the gates are big serpents which belch flame.

"The sun dies as it sinks in the west, but at midnight it starts to come alive again; and by morning it has been born in all its glory."

From that tale we can see that people might expect to have sunlight during at least a part of the time spent in the Underworld.

People in Egypt were promised they would be able to see their parents, their children, their brothers and sisters, and even their slaves when they went to the kingdom of Osiris.

A bright picture of the Underworld is painted in words written on an Egyptian manuscript which runs like this:

"You will find valleys filled with water for washing and cooling yourself, and you will pick marsh flowers and other blossoms. When you hunt birds and hunt your throwing-stick against them, a thousand geese and other wild fowl will fall at the sound of the wind made by your stick."
